DiSalle Gets O'Neill Data

18 Reports Handed To Governor-Elect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's governor and the man who beat him for a four-year term met face to face today for the first time since the Nov. 4 election.

The friendly conference took place in the Statehouse between Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill and Democratic Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle and his future first assistant, Maurice J. Connell, walked from the Deshler-Hilton Hotel to the governor's office carrying bulging brief cases.

Mrs. Myrtle DiSalle, who accompanied her husband from their home in Toledo, went to the Governor's Mansion to confer with Mrs. O'Neill. The DiSalle will move into the mansion after the Jan. 12 inauguration.

O'Neill called members of his cabinet for a briefing session with DiSalle at 11 a.m. Connell is meeting with Paul Tague Jr., one of O'Neill's assistants.

O'Neill turned over to his successor about 18 reports from department heads and commissions on governmental operations.

The governor expressed the hope that the reports will aid DiSalle in affecting an orderly transfer of the state administration Jan. 12 from the Republicans to the Democrats.

O'Neill said the state will have a $25 million dollar uncommitted cash surplus when DiSalle takes over Jan. 12. He said the surplus will exceed 40 million dollars by the end of January, but will shrink to only 6 1/2 millions by the end of June if present policies are continued.

DiSalle, in their first face-to-face meeting since the election, observed that O'Neill started his administration with a 48 million dollar balance.

"That means that you have been operating at a deficit," DiSalle said.

"No," O'Neill answered. "We inherited 40 million dollars in deficiencies. You can't charge us with that."

Continuing, DiSalle insisted: "You spent 40 million dollars more than revenues."

O'Neill replied: "In our budget two years ago, we estimated the surplus June 30, 1959, would be eight million dollars. Actually, it will be 6 1/2 million dollars."

She Wanted Life In Jail, Is Freed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Estelle Mason, 63, wanted to spend the rest of her life in jail. Instead, the judge turned her loose.

"I hoped I'd get life," said Mrs. Mason. "All I got to live on is a $50 a month pension and where can you live in Miami on $50 a month?"

In jail I never had it so good, radio, food served in my room and no dishes."

Returned from a year in a mental hospital, the white-haired Mrs. Mason pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Monday to a charge of manslaughter and received a five-year suspended sentence.

Green Christmas Possible in Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sounding like one who has received too many unexpected blows from the snows, the weatherman uttered a prediction—unofficial—today:

"It probably," he groaned, "will be a green Christmas."

While this doesn't exactly fit into the weather bureau's long range 30-day forecast for continued cold and intermittent snow, it is in keeping with the unexpected nature of this late fall season.

Although it's hard to believe when you're bending your back behind a snow shovel or inching the car along an icy thoroughfare, winter won't be here officially until Dec. 23.

But what Ohio is experiencing in the meantime is convincing enough for most. Today's cloudy, colder weather and flurries - to-heavy snowfall will give way Wednesday to increasing cloudiness, continued cold and probably more snow, at least north and central.

By the time the season's third major snow storm ends—probably this afternoon—one to six inches of new snow will cover the state, the weatherman says. The northeast, especially around Lake Erie, will probably bear the brunt of it.

Today's high is expected to be around 25 degrees, probably in the southeast. It got down to around zero in the west Monday night.

The weather's consequences... In no time at all, the orderly pattern of many a commuter and shopper's life was disrupted by delayed buses, bumper-to-bumper traffic and slippery going.

For traffic patrolmen, trying to keep traffic flowing during Monday night's rush hour, it was a nightmare. Most cities reported too many minor accidents to accurately count, including falls on icy pavements.

A prewinter blast of snow and cold gave a midwinter setting to broad areas from the Continental Divide to New England today.

Bitter cold knifed into Midwest sections as snow diminished in most areas west of the Mississippi Valley. The snow, however, continued in the Northeast. The worst snowstorm in history hit Oswego, N.Y., with a record fall of 33 inches in a 24-hour period. A state of emergency was declared for the Lake Ontario city.

Lowest temperatures of the season were reported in many parts of the snow belt from the Rockies to deep into the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Missouri Valley.

Below zero temperatures were common throughout Montana and the Dakotas and were reported as far south as central sections of Illinois and Indiana and in southern Iowa.

One of the iciest spots was International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. The thermometer dipped to 28 degrees below zero, which was a slight improvement over Monday's 32 reading.

In South Dakota, it was -15 at Philip and -14 at Huron. Minnesota's Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul shivered in readings around 10 below and northward at Duluth, it was colder. Chicago had its coldest day since last February with a low of 6 below. Six inches of snow covered areas in the city and suburbs.

The storm which dumped snow falls ranging from more than a foot to three inches across the Rockies and Midwest areas reached New England during the night. The southern boundary of the snow belt was the Ohio River, southern Pennsylvania and the metropolitan New York area. More than two inches fell early in the night in New England.

Wintery Blast Shuts Schools, Due to Stay

A cold snap, dropping the mercury to zero degrees in Washington C. H. and at least three degrees lower in surrounding area, closed three county schools Tuesday and left small hopes for clear roads with a forecast of more to come.

All county roads were reported very slick by mid-morning and county engineers said a forecast of a high of 20 degrees Tuesday afternoon and a drop to five below during the night would not be enough for salt to affect the ice.

Good Hope, Olive and Staunton schools were closed Tuesday because of the hazardous driving which made travel dangerous, even on state highways.

All highways throughout the state were open but there were icy spots everywhere and most middle lanes still had snow in them, making passing hazardous the State Highway Patrol said.

The snow was the remainder of two inches that fell Monday, causing three minor accidents on Route 62 within 30 minutes of each other. The first, in which Walter D. Daniel, 17, of Winchester slid off the road and into a light pole and

Nurses Assn. Goes over Quota

166 Pints of Blood Donated Here Monday

Fayette County met its quota for the Red Cross Blood Bank and then some, when the mobile unit spent Monday at the First Presbyterian Church.

The county's quota for this visit was 150 pints, but when the bloodmobile pulled away at 4 p. m., 166 pints had been collected.

Donor recruitment was in charge of the Fayette County Professional Nurses Assn. The nurses had signed up 176 donors for appointments, but the weather was blamed for preventing 47 from keeping them. However, 49 came without appointments to more than make up the difference.

Of the 178 who volunteered to donate blood, 12 were rejected by the attending physicians for various reasons.

Twenty-nine gave blood for the first time and 54 gave blood to replace blood that had been used by relatives of friends.

The blood from the Blood Bank is free, but there is a charge for administering it. Some, out of gratitude, specify that the blood they give is for replacement.

THREE gave their eighth pint to become members of the "Gallon Club." They were Ernest McAllister, William C. Allen and James P. Tarbuton.

Three others, Louis S. Ford, Jean Ankrom and Willard Atkinson, joined the "Two Gallon Club."

One, Mrs. Fred Rost, became a member of the "Three Gallon Club" and one, Frank Weade, became a member of the "Four Gallon Club."

Adams' Friend Failed To Reply To Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine on a charge of contempt of Congress.

The 18-count indictment was based on Goldfine's refusal to answer 22 questions put to him by the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which last summer investigated Goldfine's relationship with Sherman Adams, then assistant to President Eisenhower.

The committee heard testimony that Goldfine, an old friend of Adams, made valuable gifts to Adams and that Adams had contacted federal agencies investigating Goldfine enterprises.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer were mostly about his financial dealings with a Boston company he controls.

The House voted a contempt citation 379-8 on Aug. 13.

The law provides for maximum penalties of a year in jail and a fine of $1,000 for each count of contempt proven in court.

It was learned that the indictment was voted by the grand jury Monday while Goldfine attorneys were skirmishing in Federal Court in Boston over financial records which the millionaire industrialist had been ordered to turn over to the Internal Revenue Service in an income tax investigation.

Tax officials said the records produced were not complete, but Goldfine spokesmen pleaded they had insufficient time to get the papers together.

Goldfine's tilt with the subcommittee here occurred July 11 while the subcommittee was looking into the disposition of cases involving Goldfine companies by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The questions Goldfine refused to answer related to financial affairs of the Boston Port Development Co., in which he held the major interest.

In refusing to answer the questions, Goldfine claimed they were not pertinent to the investigation, and that they involved internal affairs of a corporation with which the subcommittee was not concerned.

The dissenters in the House vote on the contempt citation, all Republicans, took the same stand. Most men who have held it have Adams acknowledged having an inquiry made about the East Boston case but denied he applied any pressure.

District court officials said Goldfine will be arraigned next Friday, Dec. 12.

Bombing Case Jury Tries To Find Accord

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A superior court jury today began its third day of deliberations in the Jewish temple bombing case against George Bright, 35-year-old industrial engineer.

Two of the four other defendants in the Oct. 12 dynamiting were ordered released on bond late Monday night.

Earlier, Foreman Ralph C. Castleberry told Judge Durwood Pye the jury was divided 9-3 and "hopelessly deadlocked." The judge told the jurors to resume deliberations and later had them returned to their hotel for the night.

The case went to the jury at 11 p.m. Saturday night but deliberations were suspended from midnight until Monday morning under a law forbidding Sunday deliberations.

Solicitor General Paul Webb said $5,000 bond was granted for Wallace Allen and $1,000 for Robert Bowling under an agreement with the defense to withdraw their demands for immediate trial. The trial demand would have forced the prosecution to try the cases before the current court term ends Dec. 31 or dismiss the charges.

Webb said no bond had been granted for Kenneth Chester Griffin and Richard Bowling because their defense counsel would not agree to withdraw their trial demands.

The charge of destroying a place of worship carries a death penalty. The jury can only reduce it to life in prison by recommending mercy.

State Board Cancels Fayette Survey Plan

The State Board of Education withdrew from the Fayette County school board Monday afternoon, shelving its previous order for a survey here.

By a vote of 10 to 9, the board rescinded a directive for a survey given the state superintendent of public instruction in January of this year and assessed the costs already incurred against funds deposited for this purpose by a group of Fayette County residents.

More news about State Board of Education action on Page 7.

The pendency of a survey was among the grounds in one of two suits now before the Second District Court of Appeals. These suits currently are blocking the rural district's building program.

The debate which preceded the rescinding vote was marked by several minutes of tension between Dr. E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction, and board member Robert A. Manchester, former president of the state body.

WHEN MANCHESTER, who has been consistently in favor of a Fayette County — Washington C. H. survey and who succeeded in having the rescinding motion tabled at the November meeting, inferred that Dr. Holt had not pressed his search for a survey agency as diligently as he could have, the state superintendent pointedly observed that if the board did not have confidence in his integrity it should employ another superintendent.

Other board members assured Dr. Holt that they felt he had done everything possible to carry out the board's instructions.

Manchester apparently was surprised at what appeared to be a lukewarm attitude on the part of several universities, including Miami, Ohio State and Ohio U., toward making a Fayette County survey, pointing out that a contact he (Manchester) had made with Miami had indicated to him that that school's education survey unit would be interested.

Board member Harold Whitaker, who last month made the motion to terminate the board's activities in the matter of a Fayette County survey, pointed out that representatives of the State Department of Education had assisted rural Fayette County in its successful consolidation efforts and in its planning for the Miami Trace High School, adding that "The children are now waiting to get into that new school."

MEMBER Wayne E. Shaffer observed that "the battle in Fayette County is now flowing over into the State Board of Education." He

Collegians Hit Scheduling of Holiday Study

WEST LONG BRANCH, N. J. (AP)—Some 500 Monmouth College students reacted vigorously Monday when informed by President Edward G. Schlaefler that the college would conduct classes between Christmas and New Year's Day to stay abreast of the Russians in education.

Singing "Come Down, Come Down From Your Ivory Tower," they quickly converged under his third-floor office, waving signs which read "Beat Russia."

A straw effigy of Schlaefler was pelted with stones and oranges, feathered, hung from a second-story window, and burned. The burning straw mingled in the air with ballads such as "White Christmas" and "Jingle Bells."

West Long Branch police stood silently by as Schlaefler finally came out on his balcony and said: "We must utilize all of our time and facilities in this national emergency to keep up with the Russians."

Schlaefler said later he planned no disciplinary action but also had no intention of changing the schedule.

The effigy-burning brought out former Monmouth College President Eugene Leahman, who mounted some steps and declared he was "glad to see the students of this college stirred up at last."

Russia's Top Police Officer Is Transferred

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's top policeman, Gen. Ivan A. Serov, has been relieved of his job. The announcement in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia today said he had been transferred to other duties but gave no hint of what they were.

Serov's successor as chairman of the Committee for State Security also was not announced.

Most foreign observers in Moscow believed Serov may perhaps have been given an even more important job. He has long been a friend and close associate of Nikita S. Khrushchev who heads both the government and the Communist party.

(Some Western experts on Soviet affairs believed Serov had been demoted because the Izvestia announcement did not give his new post, the customary procedure when a Kremlin official is promoted.)

Serov, a 53-year-old army general, had become well known abroad in recent years for being in charge of security arrangements on Premier Khrushchev's trips. He was widely known earlier for directing the plan to liquidate anti-Communist elements in the Baltic countries in 1940.

Serov was last seen by Western correspondents at a Kremlin reception Nov. 10 for Wladyslaw Gomułka, head of the Polish Communist party. A slight, ruddy-faced man with penetrating blue eyes, he was usually friendly and informal in public, chatting freely with foreign diplomats and newsmen at receptions.

After having been closely identified with Soviet security organs almost from the beginning of his career, Serov got some of the powers of Lavrenty Beria after Stalin's police chief had been executed in 1953. He formally took command of the committee which is the supreme Soviet police organ in April 1954.

Serov was one of the numerous officials now in top Soviet ranks who worked with Khrushchev when the present Premier was Communist party boss in the Ukraine during World War II. Serov was head of state security in that southwestern Soviet republic.

Four orders of Lenin rank Serov with the other top decorated officials.

Serov served as chief bodyguard for Khrushchev and then Premier Nikolai Bulganin on their trips. He preceded them to Britain to make security arrangements for their 1956 visit.

British newspapers greeted Serov in 1956 with such names as "butcher," "murderer," "odious thug" and "jackal." The attacks were based primarily on Serov's role in purging anti-Communists from areas newly acquired by the Soviet Union during World War II.

Serov reportedly was sent to Budapest in 1956 to show Hungarian Communists how to suppress the uprising against Soviet rule.

Serov became an important element in Khrushchev's power structure. One source said Serov helped rally Khrushchev's forces in June 1957 to defeat the revolt against the party boss by former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Bulganin and others.

Paris Bare-Bust Dancers Disgusted

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The 12 French bare-bosomed dancers appearing here at the Stardust Hotel are disgusted with American men—and with American women too.

The men shout obscenities at them. The women giggle so loudly that a few have been asked to leave.

These girls, members of the Lido Club troupe from Paris, always regarded themselves as artists—until they played Las Vegas. Now, after seven months of indignities, they feel cheapened. At least one of them plans to quit.

When the girls first came here, they thought Las Vegas would be a wonderful place to meet American millionaires. Some of them did—to their shame and sorrow. Red-haired Anne Gibson, 20, was introduced to a wealthy American soon after arriving here from London last May.

Did he propose marriage? "No, he proposed something else," Anne said. "I got up and left the table."

Katinka Bleeker, who used to be a photographers' model in Amsterdam, summed up the Troupe's attitude toward American men.

"They are not nice," said the 19-year-old blonde. "I don't like people who like to buy things with money."

The strippers share the spotlight in the show with the Bluebells, a troupe of dancers from England who do not appear on stage uncovered. Some of the Bluebells also have a low opinion of American men.

Complains Bluebell Anke Linschoten, 19, of Amsterdam: All they talk about is their cars and their money.

Linda Evans, 20, who appeared with the show at the Lido in Paris without shame, says, "I don't like showing my busts to these men."

Linda does not plan to stay with the show.

Most of the girls, however, still see nothing wrong with nudity.

"Why shouldn't girls show themselves off to good advantage?"

aska Enid Mills, 26, captain of the Bluebells. "Nothing in the show is vulgar. The costumes of the Bluebells themselves are enough to look at, apart from the girls with bare bosoms."

Why, then, are bare bosoms necessary?

"Now that is a difficult question," said Enid. "I think that it's the same thing as looking at an oil painting. Why do they paint naked women? Because a bare bosom is a thing of beauty."

The show has broken all attendance records at the Stardust. Some 1,400 persons leave gambling tables and bars each night to see it.

THOUSANDS rioted in Caracas Monday night in support of a losing presidential candidate, threatening Venezuela's transition from dictatorship to a constitutional regime.

The rioters were supporters of Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, head of the junta which took control of the government after the overthrow of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez. In returns from Sunday's presidential election he was trailing former President Romulo Betancourt, head of the leftists but anti-Communist Democratic Action party.

Latest returns gave Betancourt 1,097,360 votes to 925,540 for Larrazabal. Rafael Caldera of the Christian Socialist party had 315,589 votes.

Larrazabal had accepted Communist backing in the campaign and carried the vote in Caracas overwhelmingly, but Betancourt piled up what looked like an insurmountable lead outside the capital.

Word that Betancourt appeared the winner brought Larrazabal supporters—many of them youths—pouring into the streets where seven months ago demonstrators had massed against U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Small groups clashed with police and tried to march on the headquarters of the Electoral Council, where the official vote count was in progress. Tear gas drove them off, but they continued to surge through downtown streets, tearing down Betancourt campaign posters.

In a 10-minute radio address, Larrazabal tried to calm the capital. Wait for the final election results and then support and respect the winner, he said.

Betancourt was rumored to be in hiding.

After having been closely identified with Soviet security organs almost from the beginning of his career, Serov got some of the powers of Lavrenty Beria after Stalin's police chief had been executed in 1953. He formally took command of the committee which is the supreme Soviet police organ in April 1954.

Serov was one of the numerous officials now in top Soviet ranks who worked with Khrushchev when the present Premier was Communist party boss in the Ukraine during World War II. Serov was head of state security in that southwestern Soviet republic.

Four orders of Lenin rank Serov with the other top decorated officials.

Serov served as chief bodyguard for Khrushchev and then Premier Nikolai Bulganin on their trips. He preceded them to Britain to make security arrangements for their 1956 visit.

British newspapers greeted Serov in 1956 with such names as "butcher," "murderer," "odious thug" and "jackal." The attacks were based primarily on Serov's role in purging anti-Communists from areas newly acquired by the Soviet Union during World War II.

Serov reportedly was sent to Budapest in 1956 to show Hungarian Communists how to suppress the uprising against Soviet rule.

Serov became an important element in Khrushchev's power structure. One source said Serov helped rally Khrushchev's forces in June 1957 to defeat the revolt against the party boss by former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Bulganin and others.

Bomb Franksters Freed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two Southern Cal students who planted a dud smoke bomb in Memorial Coliseum as a prank won't be prosecuted. Detectives said there was no criminal intent.

asked Enid Mills, 26, captain of the Bluebells. "Nothing in the show is vulgar. The costumes of the Bluebells themselves are enough to look at, apart from the girls with bare bosoms."

Why, then, are bare bosoms necessary?

"Now that is a difficult question," said Enid. "I think that it's the same thing as looking at an oil painting. Why do they paint naked women? Because a bare bosom is a thing of beauty."

The show has broken all attendance records at the Stardust. Some 1,400 persons leave gambling tables and bars each night to see it.

Green Christmas Possible in Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sounding like one who has received too many unexpected blows from the snows, the weatherman uttered a prediction—unofficial—today:

"It probably," he groaned, "will be a green Christmas."

While this doesn't exactly fit into the weather bureau's long range 30-day forecast for continued cold and intermittent snow, it is in keeping with the unexpected nature of this late fall season.

Although it's hard to believe when you're bending your back behind a snow shovel or inching the car along an icy thoroughfare, winter won't be here officially until Dec. 23.

But what Ohio is experiencing in the meantime is convincing enough for most. Today's cloudy, colder weather and flurries - to heavy snowfall will give way Wednesday to increasing cloudiness, continued cold and probably more snow, at least north and central.

By the time the season's third major snow storm ends—probably this afternoon—one to six inches of new snow will cover the state, the weatherman says. The northeast, especially around Lake Erie, will probably bear the brunt of it.

Today's high is expected to be around 25 degrees, probably in the southeast. It got down to around zero in the west Monday night.

The weather's consequences . . . In no time at all, the orderly pattern of many a commuter and shopper's life was disrupted by delayed buses, bumper-to-bumper traffic and slippery going.

For traffic patrolmen, trying to keep traffic flowing during Monday night's rush hour, it was a nightmare. Most cities reported too many minor accidents to accurately count, including falls on icy pavements.

A prewinter blast of snow and cold gave a midwinter setting to broad areas from the Continental Divide to New England today.

Bitter cold knifed into Midwest sections as snow diminished in most areas west of the Mississippi Valley. The snow, however, continued in the Northeast. The worst snowstorm in history hit Oswego, N.Y., with a record fall of 33 inches in a 24-hour period. A state of emergency was declared for the Lake Ontario city.

Lowest temperatures of the season were reported in many parts of the snow belt from the Rockies to deep into the mid-Mississippi Valley and the Missouri Valley.

Below zero temperatures were common throughout Montana and the Dakotas and were reported as far south as central sections of Illinois and Indiana and in southern Iowa.

One of the iciest spots was International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. The thermometer dipped to 28 degrees below zero, which was a slight improvement over Monday's 32 reading.

In South Dakota, it was -15 at Philip and -14 at Huron. Minnesota's Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul shivered in readings around 10 below and northward at Duluth, it was colder. Chicago had its coldest day since last February with a low of 6 below. Six inches of snow covered areas in the city and suburbs.

The storm which dumped snow falls ranging from more than a foot to three inches across the Rockies and Midwest areas reached New England during the night. The southern boundary of the snow belt was the Ohio River, southern Pennsylvania and the Metropolitan New York area.

More than two inches fell early in the night in New England.

Wintery Blast Shuts Schools, Due to Stay

A cold snap, dropping the mercury to zero degrees in Washington C. H. and at least three degrees lower in surrounding area, closed three county schools Tuesday and left small hopes for clear roads with a forecast of more to come.

All county roads were reported very slick by mid-morning and county engineers said a forecast of a high of 20 degrees Tuesday afternoon and a drop to five below during the night would not be enough for salt to affect the ice.

Good Hope, Olive and Staunton schools were closed Tuesday because of the hazardous driving which made travel dangerous, even on state highways.

All highways throughout the state were open but there were icy spots everywhere and most middle lanes still had snow in them, making passing hazardous the State Highway Patrol said.

The snow was the remainder of two inches that fell Monday, causing three minor accidents on Route 62 within 30 minutes of each other.

The first, in which Walter D. Daniel, 17, of Winchester slid off the road and into a light pole and

Of the 178 who volunteered to donate blood, 12 were rejected by the attending physicians for various reasons.

Twenty-nine gave blood for the

Humphrey Gives Ike Briefing

Solon Gives Details
Of Talk with Khrush'.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) today gave President Eisenhower a confidential message from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey, just back from Moscow, also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the field of rockets.

The senator gave the President an 80-minute oral report on the eight-hour conference he had with Khrushchev.

Afterward, Humphrey told newsmen his report to Eisenhower regarding Soviet nuclear explosions and developments in the rocket field are the two secrets which he had stated earlier Khrushchev had told him.

He added that the Soviet Premier had asked him specifically to pass on to Eisenhower the information dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey said Khrushchev also asked him to pass on to the President some suggestions dealing with the Berlin crisis. The senator said he personally regarded those suggestions as unacceptable to the Western Powers.

"I don't think we're going to make any progress politically with the Soviets for a long time," Humphrey told a news conference Monday. "No great political decisions are in the offing."

But he said the Soviet Union doesn't want a war for at least seven years, because war would ruin her plans for achieving development goals.

The senator was optimistic about chances of negotiating an East-West agreement to end nuclear tests, including an effective inspection system.

He saw less chance of a settlement of the Berlin dispute, which he said is "very serious and deep."

F-G Officers To Be Elected On Thursday

A slate of candidates for officers of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. has been completed by the nominating committee composed of the five past presidents of the association and the present board of directors.

From this slate the members will choose the association's officers for the coming year at Thursday night's election meeting at the lodge near Buena Vista.

The slate lists two nominees for all offices except that of vice president, which has three.

Nominees for president are Carl Wilt and Bud Hooks; for vice president, Chaney Kessner, Jay Duval and Ronald Cornwell; for treasurer, Robert Cannon and Dave Roe and for secretary, Norman D. Trout and Kenneth Arnold.

From the 10 nominees for the board of directors, four will be selected. The nominees are Walter DeWitt, Dwight Minton, A. E. Shelton, H. R. Mack, M. A. Boggis, W. D. Haines, Robert Wolf from, Virtus Kruse, James Tuvel and Russell Theobald.

Herbert Ferneau is the retiring president. He will become a member of the board of directors automatically along with the eight elected members.

Little other business is expected to be taken up at the Thursday night meeting.

Afterward, there probably will be a wildlife movie while refreshments are served.

Court To Study School Dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Efforts to block creation of a new school district approved by voters in the Nov. 4 election reached the Ohio Supreme Court today.

The Wayne County Board of Education appealed from an appellate court order for transfer of the Wooster Local School District to the Wooster City School District.

The appellate court order came two days after voters approved creation of a new school district composed of Wooster Local and Franklin Local, both in the school district of Wayne County.

Clifford H. Morrison, Walter H. Jones and 449 others filed a petition for transfer to the Wooster City District after the consolidation question had been certified for a vote.

Bloomington Snow Builds to 5.75 In.

BLOOMINGBURG — Precipitation in Bloomington amounted to .52 inches last week but built up an accumulation of 5.75 inches on Friday, Observer Larry Huff says.

The autumn's lowest temperature was recorded with a low of minus six degrees registering on the thermometer on the last day of November, he said.

After a slight warming trend during the week a high pressure area moved down from Canada and dropped the mercury to six degrees on Saturday.

By the end of the week, the sun was rising at 7:25 a. m. and setting at 5:25 p. m., Huff said.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson will deliver the keynote address here today at the Vegetable Growers Assn. of America's 50th annual convention.

Following the keynote address the convention will get down to work with sectional and general sessions. Presiding at the first general session will be Paul B. Reutenik of Vermilion, VGAA president.

Monday night, members got together for an oldtimers party. The oldest members present were John Hoag of Rocky River and Milton F. Cutting. Both are 82. Hoag was the only one present who attended the organization's first convention.

New Book's Author Did Not Write It

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts Institute of Technology has announced publication of a book which its author did not write.

The book, "Nonlinear Problems in Random Theory," is by Norbert Wiener, M.I.T. mathematician.

Nonlinear problems, with which the book is concerned, are those in which addition of inputs does not produce addition of outputs.

For example, one pill may make you well; two pills won't make you twice as well.

As M.I.T. officials explained about the book Monday: Dr. Wiener did not want to write the book because he was reluctant to strain his eyes.

He couldn't dictate it because no mathematician could make notes fast enough to keep up with him.

A stenographer was of no value because he couldn't understand the long and complex equations which went into it.

The problem, however, was solved by two colleagues, Prof. Yuk-Wing Lee and Amar G. Rose. They persuaded Dr. Wiener to present the material in a series of lectures.

A tape recorder made a verbal record of what Dr. Wiener said. Dr. Lee, a mathematician and ardent amateur photographer, sat among the students and took hundreds of pictures of the mathematical formulae which Dr. Wiener drew on blackboards.

Then Drs. Lee and Rose organized a team of students and a secretary and translated the photographs and tape into a manuscript.

Storekeeper Aids Brother, Is Killed By Armed Robber

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam Ganem usually spent Monday away from the delicatessen he operates here. But he was working Monday night when two gunmen walked into the store.

One of the robbers shot the 53-year-old storekeeper. He died a short while later at St. Vincent Charity Hospital. Being treated at the same hospital was his brother and partner, George, who had injured his hip in a fall. Because of George's injury, Sam worked Monday on his regular day off.

Some South Ohio Roads Slippery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All Ohio roads are open, but both primary and secondary thoroughfares are partially snow-covered and slippery in spots except in southern Ohio, the Ohio Department of Highways reports.

It reports roads normal south of a line marked by Hillsboro, Waverly, McArthur and Pomeroy.

The Ohio Turnpike speed limit has been cut to 40 m.p.h.

Temperatures as low as zero were reported in northern Ohio and light snow was reported in the same section.

Snowball's Chances Are Good in Hell

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The head man reported Hell frozen over today, with six inches of snow under foot. The temperature got down to 10 above zero overnight.

Hell is a tiny Michigan community 18 miles northwest of Ann Arbor. The head man is Mayor Erdly Van Sickle.

Woman Reports Theft Of Son's Bicycle

These Ohioans Fear Christmas, With Good Reason

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A group of people who are afraid of Christmas—at least in one aspect—met here Monday.

Gordon Jeffery, state highway safety director, who called their meeting of state traffic enforcement officials, church leaders, judges, state and private liquor officials and safety groups, explained:

"We're afraid of Christmas. We must have your help to alert our people to make 'Home Safe for Christmas' their neediest gift, and save 200 lives in 1958 Ohio traffic."

Calling the 1957 holiday season "one of the worst traffic slaughterers in state history," he pointed to the fact that 118 persons were killed in accidents during that Christmas-New Year period.

Delegates will work with the Department of Highway Safety on a safety campaign for this month.

Soviet Submarines To Chart Oceans

LONDON (AP) — Soviet submarines are to range the world's oceans on special charting missions.

Moscow radio today said the subs would follow up work done by Soviet scientists in connection with the International Geophysical Year program. Together with surface vessels, they will conduct oceanographic surveys "in various areas of the world's oceans," particularly in the Southern Hemisphere.

The broadcast said the first of a fleet of specially equipped submarines will put to sea shortly to make a survey for the Soviet Research Institute of Marine Fishery and Oceanography.

Greek Society Girls Handed Prison Terms

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two young Greek-Cypriot society girls were sentenced today to nine months in prison for carrying a hand grenade.

One of them threw it at a police vehicle but said she left the pin in so it wouldn't explode.

The girls, Anna Melissa, 20, and Yioulia Marcellou, 18, said two men had given them the grenade on Nov. 4 and ordered them to throw it.

Stocks Chalk Slight Gains In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Gas pipeline issues, drugs and selected stocks made good gains as the stock market staged a moderate overall advance in lively trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal stocks were up fractions to about a point. Special issues ran up gains stretching to 3 or 4 points. A scattering of losers peppered the list. The Big Three emulators were easy with Ford off a fraction.

The natural gas and pipeline stocks were still celebrating the U.S. Supreme Court ruling which reversed a lower court in the Memphis gas case. The high court ruling permits gas suppliers to raise prices, pending investigation and possible refund, without awaiting approval of the Federal Power Commission.

El Paso Natural Gas and Tennessee Gas Transmission added more than a point to substantial gains of Monday. Southern Natural Gas rose a fraction. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line erased an early gain and showed a slight fractional loss.

The opening of Pfizer was delayed 45 minutes in a buying rush inspired, Wall Streeters said, by renewed enthusiasm for the company's earnings, new products and proposed stock split. The price rose 4 1/4 to 110, later shading the gain by a point.

Polaroid rose about 4 and Zenith, also delayed in opening, about 3. Lionel dropped about 2 on a dividend omission. Parke, Davis, which has been strong lately, dropped more than a point in profit taking.

Avco, up about a point, and Divco Wayne, ahead more than that, were among trading favorites. American Telephone spurred 2. Gulf Oil and Youngstown Sheet made similar gains.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin were up about a point apiece. Gains of a point or better were made by Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower.

Pays $115 For 2 Hunting Violations

A Clarksburg man pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a hen pheasant and hunting after 5 p. m. and was fined $100 and $15 and costs, respectively, in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Sylvester Bookwalter, 45, was arrested on the charges last Friday, a day before the open season on pheasant ended.

Another hunter, Robert Lawhorn, 28, of Cincinnati, forfeited $20 on the charge of hunting after hours.

That, says Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, is what the figure will be at year-end. It includes major thoroughfare construction bonds, World War II and Korean conflict bonus bonds, capital improvement bonds and interest.

Humphrey Gives Ike Briefing

Solon Gives Details Of Talk with Khrush'.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) today gave President Eisenhower a confidential message from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey, just back from Moscow, also told Eisenhower about secret Soviet developments in the field of rockets.

The senator gave the President an 80-minute oral report on the eight-hour conference he had with Khrushchev.

Afterward, Humphrey told newsmen his report to Eisenhower regarding Soviet nuclear explosions and developments in the rocket field are the two secrets which he had stated earlier Khrushchev had told him.

He added that the Soviet Premier had asked him specifically to pass on to Eisenhower the information dealing with Russian nuclear explosions.

Humphrey said Khrushchev also asked him to pass on to the President some suggestions dealing with the Berlin crisis. The senator said he personally regarded those suggestions as unacceptable to the Western Powers.

"I don't think we're going to make any progress politically with the Soviets for a long time," Humphrey told a news conference Monday. "No great political decisions are in the offing."

But he said the Soviet Union doesn't want a war for at least seven years, because war would ruin her plans for achieving development goals.

The senator was optimistic about chances of negotiating an East-West agreement to end nuclear tests, including an effective inspection system.

He saw less chance of a settlement of the Berlin dispute, which he said is "very serious and deep."

F-G Officers To Be Elected On Thursday

A slate of candidates for officers of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. has been completed by the nominating committee composed of the five past presidents of the association and the present board of directors.

From this slate the members will choose the association's officers for the coming year at Thursday night's election meeting at the lodge near Buena Vista.

The slate lists two nominees for all offices except that of vice president, which has three.

Nominees for president are Carl Wilt and Bud Hooks; for vice president, Chaney Kessner, Jay Duval and Ronald Cornwell; for treasurer, Robert Cannon and Dave Roe and for secretary, Norman D. Trout and Kenneth Arnold.

From the 10 nominees for the board of directors, four will be selected. The nominees are Walter DeWitt, Dwight Minton, A. E. Shelton, H. R. Mack, M. A. de Boggis, W. D. Haines, Robert Wolf, from Virtus Kruse, James Tuvel and Russell Theobald.

Herbert Ferneau is the retiring president. He will become a member of the board of directors automatically along with the eight elected members.

Little other business is expected to be taken up at the Thursday night meeting.

Afterward, there probably will be a wildlife movie while refreshments are served.

Court To Study School Dispute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Efforts to block creation of a new school district approved by voters in the Nov. 4 election reached the Ohio Supreme Court today.

The Wayne County Board of Education appealed from an appellate court order for transfer of the Wooster Local School District to the Wooster City School District.

The appellate court order came two days after voters approved creation of a new school district composed of Wooster Local and Franklin Local, both in the school district of Wayne County.

Clifford H. Morrison, Walter H. Jones and 440 others filed a petition for transfer to the Wooster City District after the consolidation question had been certified for a vote.

The group's repertory includes works of Shalom Aleichem, Jacob Goldfaden and Jacob Gordin.

fence, happened about 11 miles south of the city.

Two cars were involved in the next accident about 15 minutes later when Dick E. Bannon, 19, of Route 2, slid into a car driven by Walter P. Thompson, 64, of Flake-Ford Rd.

Bannon was just coming off Staunton-Sugar Grove Rd. when he slid into Thompson who had stopped to let him pass, sheriff's deputies said.

Damage to each of the cars was estimated at $100.

Ryan C. Reed, 22, of Greenfield, slid off the road about 150 feet north of the second accident about 15 minutes later, deputies said.

Reed slid into a fence alongside the road. Damage to his car was minor.

Although the lowest official reading in the state Tuesday morning was minus five degrees, unofficial reports said the thermometer hit minus six on the outskirts of Washington C. H.

Bloomingsburg Snow Builds to 5.75 In.

BLOOMINGBURG — Precipitation in Bloomingsburg amounted to .52 inches last week but built up an accumulation of 5.75 inches on Friday, Observer Larry Huff says.

The autumn's lowest temperature was recorded with a low of minus six degrees registering on the thermometer on the last day of November, he said.

After a slight warming trend during the week a high pressure area moved down from Canada and dropped the mercury to six degrees on Saturday.

By the end of the week, the sun was rising at 7:25 a. m. and setting at 5:25 p. m., Huff said.

Benson Schedules Cleveland Address

CLEVELAND (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson will deliver the keynote address here today at the Vegetable Growers Assn. of America's 50th annual convention.

Following the keynote address the convention will get down to work with sectional and general sessions. Presiding at the first general session will be Paul B. Reutenik of Vermilion, VGAA president.

Monday night, members got together for an oldtimers party. The oldest members present were John Hoag of Rocky River and Milton F. Cutting. Both are 82. Hoag was the only one present who attended the organization's first convention.

PACIFIST WARR—Police forcibly remove a pacifist demonstrator, inappropriately named Will Warr, from the site of the proposed U. S. Thor missile base near Swaffham, England. Warr was among a noisy group that invaded the site in an attempt to halt the building of the supposedly-secret base.

New Book's Author Did Not Write It

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts Institute of Technology has announced publication of a book which its author did not write.

The book, "Nonlinear Problems in Random Theory," is by Norbert Wiener, M.I.T. mathematician.

Nonlinear problems, with which the book is concerned, are those in which addition of inputs does not produce addition of outputs.

For example, one pill may make you well; two pills won't make you twice as well.

As M.I.T. officials explained about the book Monday: Dr. Wiener did not want to write the book because he was reluctant to strain his eyes.

He couldn't dictate it because no mathematician could make notes fast enough to keep up with him.

A stenographer was of no value because he couldn't understand the long and complex equations which went into it.

The problem, however, was solved by two colleagues, Prof. S. Yuk-Wing Lee and Amar G. Rose. They persuaded Dr. Wiener to present the material in a series of lectures.

A tape recorder made a verbal record of what Dr. Wiener said. Dr. Lee, a mathematician and ardent amateur photographer, sat among the students and took hundreds of pictures of the mathematical formulae which Dr. Wiener drew on blackboards.

Then Drs. Lee and Rose organized a team of students and a secretary and translated the photographs and tape into a manuscript.

Storekeeper Aids Brother, Is Killed By Armed Robber

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sam Ganem usually spent Monday away from the delicatessen he operates here. But he was working Monday night when two gunmen walked into the store.

One of the robbers shot the 53-year-old storekeeper. He died a short while later at St. Vincent Charity Hospital. Being treated at the same hospital was his brother and partner, George, who had injured his hip in a fall. Because of George's injury, Sam worked Monday on his regular day off.

Mrs. Ganem said her husband waved his arms and shouted "get out! get out!" at the robbers. One of the men who wore glasses and carried a pistol in his left hand, fired one shot, which struck the storekeeper in the chest. The robbers fled empty handed.

Some South Ohio Roads Slippery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All Ohio roads are open, but both primary and secondary thoroughfares are partially snow-covered and slippery in spots except in southern Ohio, the Ohio Department of Highways reports.

It reports roads normal south of a line marked by Hillsboro, Waverly, McArthur and Pomeroy.

The Ohio Turnpike speed limit has been cut to 40 m.p.h.

Temperatures as low as zero were reported in northern Ohio and light snow was reported in the same section.

Snowball's Chances Are Good in Hell

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The head man reported Hell frozen over today, with six inches of snow under foot. The temperature got down to 10 above zero overnight.

Hell is a tiny Michigan community 18 miles northwest of Ann Arbor. The head man is Mayor Erdly Van Sickle.

Soviet Submarines To Chart Oceans

LONDON (AP) — Soviet submarines are to range the world's oceans on special charting missions.

Moscow radio today said the subs would follow up work done by Soviet scientists in connection with the International Geophysical Year program. Together with surface vessels, they will conduct oceanographic surveys "in various areas of the world's oceans," particularly in the Southern Hemisphere.

The broadcast said the first of a fleet of specially equipped submarines will put to sea shortly to make a survey for the Soviet Research Institute of Marine Fishery and Oceanography.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin were up about a point apiece. Gains of a point or better were made by Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge.

Greek Society Girls Handed Prison Terms

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Two young Greek-Cypriot society girls were sentenced today to nine months in prison for carrying a hand grenade.

One of them threw it at a police vehicle but said she left the pin in so it wouldn't explode.

The girls, Anna Melissa, 20, and Yioulia Marcellou, 18, said two men had given them the grenade on Nov. 4 and ordered them to throw it.

Anna is the daughter of a former Supreme Court judge. Yioulia's father is a bank official.

Stocks Chalk Slight Gains In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Gas pipeline issues, drugs and selected stocks made good gains as the stock market staged a moderate overall advance in lively trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal stocks were up fractions to about a point. Special issues ran up gains stretching to 3 or 4 points. A scattering of losers peppered the list. The Big Three emulators were easy with Ford off a fraction.

The natural gas and pipeline stocks were still celebrating the U.S. Supreme Court ruling which reversed a lower court in the Memphis gas case. The high court ruling permits gas suppliers to raise prices, pending investigation and possible refund, without awaiting approval of the Federal Power Commission.

El Paso Natural Gas and Tennessee Gas Transmission added more than a point to substantial gains of Monday. Southern Natural Gas rose a fraction. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line erased an early gain and showed a slight fractional loss.

The opening of Pfizer was delayed 45 minutes in a buying rush inspired, Wall Streeters said, by renewed enthusiasm for the company's earnings, new products and proposed stock split.

The price rose 4 1/4 to 110, later shading the gain by about a point.

Polaroid rose about 4 and Zenith, also delayed in opening, about 3. Lionel dropped about 2 on a dividend omission. Parke, Davis, which has been strong lately, dropped more than a point in profit taking.

Avco, up about a point, and Divco Wayne, ahead more than that, were among trading favorites. American Telephone spurred 2. Gulf Oil and Youngstown Sheet made similar gains.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin were up about a point apiece. Gains of a point or better were made by Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower.

Pays $115 For 2 Hunting Violations

A Clarksburg man pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a hen pheasant and hunting after 5 p. m. and was fined $100 and $15 and costs, respectively, in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Sylvester Bookwalter, 45, was arrested on the charges last Friday, a day before the open season on pheasant ended.

Another hunter, Robert Lawhorn, 28, of Cincinnati, forfeited $20 on the charge of hunting after hours.

State's Bonded Debt Reaches Record High

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's outstanding bond debt has jumped 63 million dollars since the end of June to an all-time high of $550,484,000, the state treasurer says.

That, says Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, is what the figure will be at year-end. It includes major thoroughfare construction bonds, World War II and Korean conflict bonus bonds, capital improvement bonds and interest.

SUB Backers Now Count on Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Backers of supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) figure that loss of their court battle will not prevent them from winning their war.

They express confidence that the Democratic-controlled Legislature convening next month will act to permit unemployed workers to draw SUB and state jobless compensation at the same time.

But opponents who won an Ohio Supreme Court decision against simultaneous payments served notice they will continue the fight to block what they term a foot-in-the-door bid for a guaranteed annual wage.

"We will be fighting harder than ever to hold the line and I think we can do it," said Fred J. Milligan, executive secretary of the Ohio Information Committee, composed largely of employers opposed to SUB.

Milligan viewed the court victory as strengthening the stand of the committee, which is composed of some 1,250 members in all but three of Ohio's 88 counties who employ about 1½ million workers.

Ohio's highest court this week upheld an administration ruling that SUB payments must be deducted from state benefits because they are remuneration. The decision reversed lower court decisions favoring simultaneous payments.

Union contracts with employers in the steel, rubber and other major industries provide for SUB payments to augment state benefits. Workers get about 65 per cent of take-home pay while unemployed. Such contracts cover about 270,000 Ohio workers.

Unionists estimate that the high court decision blocked back payment of more than 25 million dollars to workers, some of them unemployed for a year. They expressed the hope that the money will be released and continuing payments authorized early in the legislative session starting Jan. 5.

Democratic majorities in both houses are too thin for emergency approval, effective upon enactment, without help from Republicans.

Enactment of regular legislation would mean a 90-day delay to become operative, a period in which opponents could seek a referendum. Such a last-ditch effort appeared unlikely to politicians in view of the decisive defeat of the right-to-work issue in the last election.

"The only reason we have a SUB problem now is because of right-to-work," Milligan asserted.

Republican leaders generally blamed effects of the union-opposed RTW issue in the election for loss of legislative control to Democrats. Recent GOP-dominated legislatures turned back SUB proposals.

Milligan asserted the impending legislative wrangle over SUB will intensify as the Ohio Information Committee becomes more active. "The situation will tighten up because of the activities of our members," he said.

The committee was formed to oppose a CIO-initiated law in the 1955 election to boost jobless benefits and sanction forms of SUB payments different from those still permitted under state law despite the high court ruling.

The committee disbanded in 1956 after voters rejected the proposal but was revived in 1957 and joined the court battle over SUB. Preparing for a showdown in the next Legislature, the committee said:

"Once the state agrees that private benefits need not be deducted from state benefits, the door is wide open to the guaranteed annual wage. For, by the simple process of getting the Legislature to increase the duration and amount of private benefits the next year, the guaranteed annual wage is easily attainable, in short order, once SUB is permitted."

After All, It's the People Who Count

Nearly every one knows about the new drugs that control pneumonia and tuberculosis and the Salk vaccine that prevents polio paralysis.

What most of us generally forget is that behind these medical triumphs are people. Without skilled people in the clinics, the hospitals and the research laboratories, the fight against disease could not go on.

Despite our recent advances in medical science, there is a growing shortage of these trained disease fighters. We need over 100,000 more nurses, physical and occupational therapists, medical social workers, doctors and experts all down the line from clinical practice to laboratory research.

To fill this gap in medical manpower, The National Foundation has just announced the most impressive plan for health scholarships in our history.

The National Foundation, originally known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is the voluntary health organization that runs the March of Dimes, gave patient aid to some 325,000 polio victims, financed the Salk vaccine and educated 70 million Americans to use it as protection against polio paralysis. It is now expanding its scope to include, besides polio, America's No. 1 cripple—arthritis—and the nation's most unmet childhood problem—birth defects.

Over the next 10 years The National Foundation proposes to set aside $12 million in March of Dimes funds to help 505 students each year get college training in the health professions. Each scholarship will pay $500 a year for four years. The National Foundation's 3,100 chapters will select from each state five to 25 students a year, depending on population.

Through this scholarship plan, The National Foundation is putting the emphasis for winning the health battle back on people. And it's people who count.

No Low Man on Totem Pole

NEW YORK (AP)—The writer is no longer low man on the Hollywood totem pole.

"In the old days a writer was kind of like a zuy in uniform before Pearl Harbor," said Daniel Taradash. "He was afraid to go into the best hotels."

"But now he is a person of importance in the industry. Everybody at the moment is paying him lip service. Production heads are getting the idea that writers can do more than just sit at a typewriter. Their advice is sought. They are now allowed—even welcomed—on the set."

Taradash, who now also directs and produces films, is currently one of the highest paid writers in the field.

The film writing minimum is now $350 a week. But Taradash's typewriter is now so highly regarded that he can demand and get a "big chunk more than $100,000" for writing a picture, plus a share of the profits.

Taradash, a Harvard law graduate, rang the bell in 1938 in his first assignment in Hollywood as co-author of the script for "Golden Boy."

Dan, a pleasant-faced man of 45 with thinning hair, made movie history when he insisted on getting a percentage of the profits for adapting "From Here to Eternity," a script that won him an Oscar.

A slow and painstaking craftsman, Taradash has turned out only about a dozen movies in 20 years. He takes from six months to a year to finish a script.

"During the precatolating period I may sit for two or three weeks and not write a line," he said. "In the old Hollywood day that would have been unthinkable."

"A writer then was supposed to write—not think."

"I also have another unusual clause in my contract—that they can't see the script at all until I complete it, unless I choose to let them," he said.

"You can get murdered if you let a producer have a third of the script, while you're still working on the rest. He can start picking it to pieces. Writers can easily be confused bulldozed and talked out of an idea."

Taradash doesn't share the idea that Hollywood stifles creative talent, and that a man is only as good as his last picture.

"It's an optimistic place," he said. "They like success and like to remember it. Your flops and the stumbling blocks of your career they tend to overlook and forget."

"That attitude is one of the pleasantest things about Hollywood."

By Hal Boyle

It Sounds Good . . . but

Miss Pauline Frederick, who does radio commenting about the United Nations and such matters, went up to Elenira, New York, and lectured the audience upon various and sundry topics.

In due course, a reader sent me a clipping reporting the lecture from the "Star-Gazette," and in it were these noble sentiments:

"Why don't we have a crash education program for peace—in learning to walk humble and practicing brotherly love—in creating thinkers, philosophers, and humanists who will make a contribution, not to greater violence, but to bring unity out of chaos."

"Why do we not dedicate our education to abolish the war habit and war thinking so that those who come after us will readily turn to the conference table?"

To disagree is to say that peace is bad, that brotherly love is unwise and that thinkers and philosophers are a bore. I shall not be guilty of such nihilistic generalizations.

On the other hand, it is difficult to understand how anyone can ignore 40 years of history and still ask us to turn the other cheek after we have been kicked in the groin by Soviet Russia. Surely it would be a pleasant world if there were no wars.

Unfortunately, we no more got through with Lebanon than we did with the United States. We no more got through with Quemoy than the Berlin ultimatum was hurled at us.

When we shall have got through with the Berlin ultimatum, there will be another episode, as there has been some trouble now, practically every day since 1945.

Precisely, what would Miss Frederick have us do? Give in to every demand that Soviet Russia makes upon us? Does she want the thinkers, philosophers and humanists, whom she would have us create, kow-tow to Khrushchev, drunk or sober, at all times?

Incidentally and by the way, the word, humanist, in the above, is used incorrectly. A person can be a thinker and a philosopher and not a humanist.

The term humanist is the opposite of the word, theist. A theist or, at least, a theist sometimes called, is one who believes that God is the center of life; a humanist is one who believes that man is the center of all things. It strikes me that the word in the above quotation that Miss Frederick would have preferred the reporter to use is humanitarian.

And if that is so, is there or has there ever been a nation which is more humanitarian than the United States which has given billions of its wealth to all the world, often with no strings attached, out of the goodness of the heart of the American people?

As humanitarians, we do better than as politicians or as soldiers. We go to the trouble of rebuilding our enemies, as we have done for Japan and for West Germany. We even gave Soviet Russia 11 billion dollars and some American probably would prefer that we go on giving even though Soviet Russia has become our principal enemy and Khrushchev says: "We will bury you," meaning to do it by 1970 by economic means if he can.

Miss Frederick's speech at Elenira must have been very interesting, particularly when she described the United Nations:

"Reduced to its simplest terms, the United Nations is a conference table. It is offered as a substitute for the battlefield. It is always available."

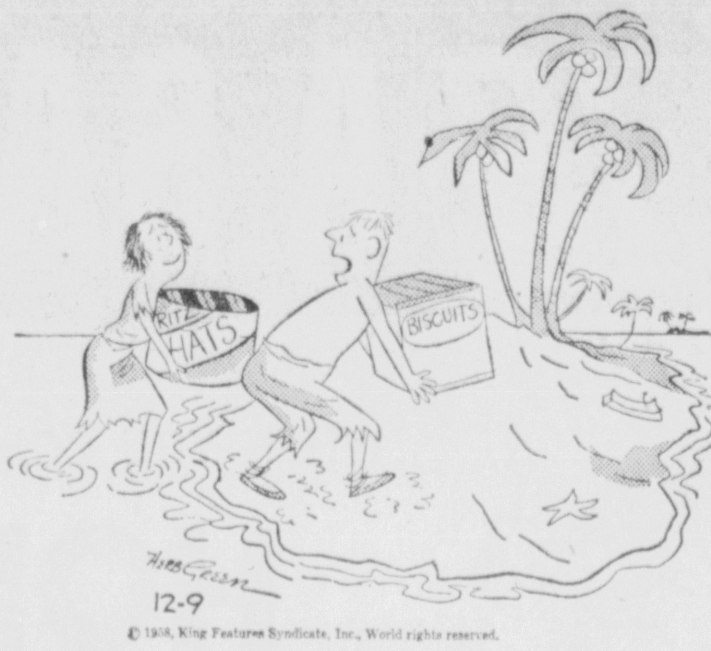

But why are so many of the most important conferences held elsewhere? For instance, at this moment we are holding a conference with Soviet Russia about surprise attacks in Geneva.

Is not the answer that with 81 nations in the United Nations, some as small as the Bronx, the place has become an elocution salon in which each local gargler of the enormous phrase speaks for the ears of his own countryman while other United Nations delegates sit around waiting their turn to do the same?

How can the major nations confer there when every little country, with even smaller responsibility, can butt into every argument?

How much actual business can be transacted by this method? The reason that so many conferences are held outside is that real power still exists among those who can shoot to kill. Of these, the principals are the United States and Soviet Russia.

Diet and Health Holiday Card Project Has Its Own Hazards

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

IT'S ABOUT time for that annual holiday chore—sending out Christmas cards.

It's nice to receive these messages of good wishes and it makes you feel nice to send them to friends and relatives. At the same time, however, it is a lot of work. Just ask any housewife a couple of weeks from now.

I'm sorry that I can't help you with this big job, but I may be able to make it a bit easier—and safer—for you.

Don't Lick Envelopes

For one thing, don't lick all those envelopes! Even if the gummed edges tasted like chocolate—and you know that they don't—it would be both unpleasant and unwise to lick them in order to seal the envelopes.

A paper cut can be a wicked thing. And it is so easy for the tongue to be sliced by the thin edges of a stiff envelope.

Public Warned

Now this isn't some far-fetched possibility. It happens often enough to cause the National Bureau of Standards to issue an anti-licking warning in a bulletin on "Safety for the Household."

If you must use your tongue, just press it gently against the gummed edge in several places.

Use a Sponge

Best method of wetting an envelope is to use a small moistened sponge. You can get one for a small sum in just about any stationery store.

By the time you finish addressing all the envelopes and signing all the cards your signature is likely to be an unrecognizable scrawl—unless you practice good penmanship.

Even for a simple job such as this you should move your whole arm when you write.

Strain the Muscles

I know the tendency of many people is to write by moving only the thumb and index finger and maybe the wrist, but in time this will tend to make your writing jerky. Moreover, you might develop writer's cramp. When you don't write properly, you see, you throw a great amount of strain on a small group of muscles.

And before you know it you will be gripping your pen tighter than is necessary and your hand will become tired and begin to ache. Hardly the way to get into the proper Christmas spirit, is it?

QUESTION AND ANSWER

M. S.: Are sugar-free fruit juices good for a diabetic to drink?

Answer: That depends upon your doctor's advice.

As a rule, sugar-free juices are suitable for diabetic diets. Since they contain carbohydrates and calories, these must be taken into consideration in calculating the diet.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SALESMAN brought his son, a TV addict, into a restaurant. Sonny promptly yanked a water pistol out of his holster, and shot a stream into the face of a startled diner. "Don't mind the kid," soothed the father. "You ought to see what he does to people he suspects of rustling!"

Fifty miles from home, embarked on a vacation tour, Mrs. Jacobs suddenly cried, "Stop the car! I forgot to turn off my electric iron before we locked up the house."

"Cheer up," counseled Mrs. Jacobs' husband, Walter. "It won't burn long. I forgot to turn off the faucet in the bathtub."

Matrimonial mutterings:

HUSBAND: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make pastry like my mother.

WIFE: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make dough like my father.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest weakness in what the Democratic Advisory Council recommends is that the two most powerful Democrats in Congress—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson—are not members of the council.

The council includes some of the very top Democrats—like former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, New York's Gov. Averell Harriman—but when it was created two years ago Rayburn and Johnson, both of Texas, refused to join.

If they had accepted membership, they would have committed themselves to follow through on what the council recommended. By standing aloof they can pretty well pick and choose what they want to push or fight for.

Since the Democrats lost the presidential election in 1956, the party was left without any real, single head for the next four years. The council attempts to assert some leadership.

Thus the program it outlined Sunday for Democrats in Congress to follow in 1959 was a statement of goals, hopes and intentions.

It's been called the Democrats' "State of the Union message."

Next month, as usual at the beginning of each session of Congress, President Eisenhower will present his own State of the Union message, outlining his programs and ideas for 1959.

Both houses of Congress will listen attentively and then suit themselves about what they will accept, reject, modify or expand from all the proposals Eisenhower makes.

The same will be true of the congressional attitude towards the Democratic Advisory Council's ideas.

Members of Congress, and this certainly goes for their leaders, are very jealous of the rights, privileges and prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government.

They reserve to themselves the right to make the final decisions on any proposals from the executive branch, headed by Eisenhower, or from any outsider or group of outsiders, like the Democratic Advisory Council.

Rayburn, boss of the House Democrats, and Johnson, leader of the Democrats in the Senate, are both conservative. The Democratic Advisory Council's recommendations were both more liberal and more far-ranging than anything being talked about by Rayburn and Johnson.

For example: The council suggested making the law tougher to give the government a stronger hand in protecting civil rights; it suggested the Senate soften its rules to make it easier to smash filibusters.

Again and again the Southern Democrats have used the filibuster—which, under present Senate rules, gives them the right to almost unlimited debate—to block civil rights legislation.

But the fact remains the new Congress, where the Democrats have an overwhelming majority, will have to look to Rayburn and Johnson for leadership.

Both men in the past have shown an amazing ability to get from their fellow Democrats and even from many Republicans cooperation and approval on the various pieces of legislation they wanted to see get through.

For both men next year the job of shepherding the legislation they want may be tougher, if only because there will be more Democrats in Congress.

Nevertheless, Rayburn and Johnson will be key men. Therefore in large measure the program produced by the Democratic Advisory Council will depend on Rayburn and Johnson.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Judge Orders Woman To Make Book Report

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP)—A woman is under court order to read and make a book report of Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Each week Mrs. Naomi Walsh, 52, must give the court a summary of a chapter until she finishes the book.

Municipal Judge William M. Martin, who convicted her of hitting a woman neighbor with a hose nozzle, gave her the choice of writing the book review or spending 10 days in jail. He also fined her $200 and put her on a year's probation.

After All, It's the People Who Count

Nearly every one knows about the new drugs that control pneumonia and tuberculosis and the Salk vaccine that prevents polio paralysis.

What most of us generally forget is that behind these medical triumphs are people. Without skilled people in the clinics, the hospitals and the research laboratories, the fight against disease could not go on.

Despite our recent advances in medical science, there is a growing shortage of these trained disease fighters. We need over 100,000 more nurses, physical and occupational therapists, medical social workers, doctors and experts all down the line from clinical practice to laboratory research.

To fill this gap in medical manpower, The National Foundation has just announced the most impressive plan for health scholarships in our history.

The National Foundation, originally known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is the voluntary health organization that runs the March of Dimes, gave patient aid to some 325,000 polio victims, financed the Salk vaccine and educated 70 million Americans to use it as protection against polio paralysis. It is now expanding its scope to include, besides polio, America's No. 1 cripple — arthritis — and the nation's most unmet childhood problem — birth defects.

Over the next 10 years The National Foundation proposes to set aside $12 million in March of Dimes funds to help 505 students each year get college training in the health professions. Each scholarship will pay $500 a year for four years. The National Foundation's 3,100 chapters will select from each state five to 25 students a year, depending on population.

Through this scholarship plan, The National Foundation is putting the emphasis for winning the health battle back on people. And it's people who count.

No Low Man on Totem Pole

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—The writer is no longer low man on the Hollywood totem pole.

"In the old days a writer was kind of like a guy in uniform before Pearl Harbor," said Daniel Taradash. "He was afraid to go into the best hotels."

"But now he is a person of importance in the industry. Everybody at the moment is paying him lip service. Production heads are getting the idea that writers can do more than just sit at a typewriter. Their advice is sought. They are now allowed—even welcomed—on the set."

Taradash, who now also directs and produces films, is currently one of the highest paid writers in the field.

The film writing minimum is now $350 a week. But Taradash's typewriter is now so highly regarded that he can demand and get a "big chunk more than $100,000" for writing a picture, plus a share of the profits.

Taradash, a Harvard law graduate, rang the bell in 1938 in his first assignment in Hollywood as co-author of the script for "Golden Boy."

Dan, a pleasant-faced man of 45 with thinning hair, made movie history when he insisted on getting a percentage of the profits for adapting "From Here to Eternity," a script that won him an Oscar.

A slow and painstaking craftsman, Taradash has turned out only about a dozen movies in 20 years. He takes from six months to a year to finish a script.

"During the precolating period I may sit for two or three weeks and not write a line," he said. "In the old Hollywood day that would have been unthinkable."

"A writer then was supposed to write—not think."

"I also have another unusual clause in my contract—that they can't see the script at all until I complete it, unless I choose to let them," he said.

"You can get murdered if you let a producer have a third of the script, while you're still working on the rest. He can start picking it to pieces. Writers can easily be confused bulldozed and talked out of an idea."

Taradash doesn't share the idea that Hollywood stifles creative talent, and that a man is only as good as his last picture.

"It's an optimistic place," he said. "They like success and like to remember it. Your flops and the stumbling blocks of your career they tend to overlook and forget."

"That attitude is one of the pleasantest things about Hollywood."

It Sounds Good . . . but

By George Sokolsky

Miss Pauline Frederick, who does radio commenting about the United Nations and such matters, went up to Elmira, New York, and lectured the audience upon various and sundry topics.

In due course, a reader sent me a clipping reporting the lecture from the "Star-Gazette," and in it were these noble sentiments:

"Why don't we have a crash education program for peace—in learning to walk humble and practicing brotherly love—in creating thinkers, philosophers, and humanists who will make a contribution, not to greater violence, but to bring unity out of chaos."

"Why do we not devote our education to abolish the war habit and war thinking so that those who come after us will readily turn to the conference table?"

To disagree is to say that peace is bad, that brotherly love is unwise and that thinkers and philosophers are a bore. I shall not be guilty of such nihilistic generalizations.

On the other hand, it is difficult to understand how anyone can ignore 40 years of history and still ask us to turn the other cheek after we have been kicked in the groin by Soviet Russia. Surely it would be a pleasant world if there were no wars.

Unfortunately, we no more got through with Lebanon than Que-moy came upon us; we no more got through with Quemoy than the Berlin ultimatum was hurled at us.

When we shall have got through with the Berlin ultimatum, there will be another episode, as there has been some trouble now, practically every day since 1945.

Precisely, what would Miss Frederick have us do? Give in to every demand that Soviet Russia makes upon us? Does she want the thinkers, philosophers and humanists, whom she would have us create, kowtow to Khrushchev, drunk or sober, at all times?

Incidentally and by the way, the word, humanist, in the above, is used incorrectly. A person can be a thinker and a philosopher and not a humanist.

The term humanist is the opposite of the word, theist. A theist or deity, as he is sometimes called, is one who believes that God is the center of life; a humanist is one who believes that man is the center of all things. It strikes me that the word in the above quotation that Miss Frederick would have preferred the reporter to use his humanitarian.

And if that is so, is there or has there ever been a nation which is more humanitarian than the United States which has given billions of its wealth to all the world, often with no strings attached, out of the goodness of the heart of the American people?

As humanitarians, we do better than as politicians or as soldiers. We go to the trouble of rebuilding our enemies, as we have done for Japan and for West Germany. We even gave Soviet Russia 11 billion dollars and some American probably would prefer that we go on giving even though Soviet Russia has become our principal enemy and Khrushchev says: "We will bury you," meaning to do it by 1970 by economic means if he can.

Miss Frederick's speech at Elmira must have been very interesting, particularly when she described the United Nations:

"Reduced to its simplest terms, the United Nations is a conference table. It is offered as a substitute for the battlefield. It is always available."

But why are so many of the most important conferences held elsewhere? For instance, at this moment we are holding a conference with Soviet Russia about surprise attacks in Geneva.

Is not the answer that with 81 nations in the United Nations, some as small as the Bronx, the place has become an elocution salon in which each local garger of the enormous phrase speaks for the ears of his own countrymen while other United Nations delegates sit around waiting their turn to do the same?

How can the major nations confer there when every little country, with even smaller responsibility, can butt into every argument?

How much actual business can be transacted by this method? The reason that so many conferences are held outside is that real power still exists among those who can shoot to kill. Of these, the principals are the United States and Soviet Russia.

Judge Orders Woman To Make Book Report

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP)—A woman is under court order to read and make a book report of Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Each week Mrs. Naomi Walsh, 52, must give the court a summary of a chapter until she finishes the book.

Municipal Judge William M. Martin, who convicted her of hitting a woman neighbor with a hose nozzle, gave her the choice of writing the book review or spending 10 days in jail. He also fined her $200 and put her on a year's probation.

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Police said a shotgun thief who told housewives "I've come for the gun I bought from your husband," met his match in Mrs. Edward Stubbs.

Mrs. Stubbs refused to give the man a shotgun — her husband doesn't have one.

Diet and Health Holiday Card Project Has Its Own Hazards

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

IT'S ABOUT time for that annual holiday chore—sending out Christmas cards.

It's nice to receive these messages of good wishes and it makes you feel nice to send them to friends and relatives. At the same time, however, it is a lot of work. Just ask any housewife a couple of weeks from now.

I'm sorry that I can't help you with this big job, but I may be able to make it a bit easier—and safer—for you.

Don't Lick Envelopes

For one thing, don't lick all those envelopes! Even if the gummed edges tasted like chocolate—and you know that they don't—it would be both unpleasant and unwise to lick them in order to seal the envelopes.

A paper cut can be a wicked thing. And it is so easy for the tongue to be sliced by the thin edges of a stiff envelope.

Public Warned

Now this isn't some far-fetched possibility. It happens often enough to cause the National Bureau of Standards to issue an anti-licking warning in a bulletin on "Safety for the Household."

If you must use your tongue, just press it gently against the gummed edge in several places.

Use a Sponge

Best method of wetting an envelope is to use a small moistened sponge. You can get one

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SALESMAN brought his son, a TV addict, into a restaurant. Sonny promptly yanked a water pistol out of his holster, and shot a stream into the face of a startled diner. "Don't mind the kid," soothed the father. "You ought to see what he does to people he suspects of rustling!"

Fifty miles from home, embarked on a vacation tour, Mrs. Jacobs suddenly cried, "Stop the car! I forgot to turn off my electric iron before we locked up the house."

"Cheer up," counseled Mrs. Jacobs' husband, Walter. "It won't burn long. I forgot to turn off the faucet in the bathtub."

Matrimonial mutterings:

HUSBAND: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make pastry like my mother.

WIFE: I don't know why, but you can't seem to make dough like my father.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest weakness in what the Democratic Advisory Council recommends is that the two most powerful Democrats in Congress — Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson — are not members of the council.

The council includes some of the very top Democrats—like former President Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, New York's Gov. Averell Harriman — but when it was created two years ago Rayburn and Johnson, both of Texas, refused to join.

If they had accepted membership, they would have committed themselves to follow through on what the council recommended. By standing aloof they can pretty well pick and choose what they want to push or fight for.

Since the Democrats lost the presidential election in 1956, the party was left without any real, single head for the next four years. The council attempts to assert some leadership.

Thus the program it outlined Sunday for Democrats in Congress to follow in 1959 was a statement of goals, hopes and intentions.

It's been called the Democrats' "State of the Union message."

Next month, as usual at the beginning of each session of Congress, President Eisenhower will present his own State of the Union message, outlining his programs and ideas for 1959.

Both houses of Congress will listen attentively and then suit themselves about what they will accept, reject, modify or expand from all the proposals Eisenhower makes.

The same will be true of the congressional attitude towards the Democratic Advisory Council's ideas.

Members of Congress, and this certainly goes for their leaders, are very jealous of the rights, privileges and prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government.

They reserve to themselves the right to make the final decisions on any proposals from the executive branch, headed by Eisenhower, or from any outsider or group of outsiders, like the Democratic Advisory Council.

Rayburn, boss of the House Democrats, and Johnson, leader of the Democrats in the Senate, are both conservative. The Democratic Advisory Council's recommendations were both more liberal and more far-ranging than anything being talked about by Rayburn and Johnson.

For example: The council suggested making the law stronger to give the government a stronger hand in protecting civil rights; it suggested the Senate soften its rules to make it easier to smash filibusters.

Again and again the Southern Democrats have used the filibuster—which, under present Senate rules, gives them the right to almost unlimited debate—to block civil rights legislation.

But the fact remains the new Congress, where the Democrats have an overwhelming majority, will have to look to Rayburn and Johnson for leadership.

Both men in the past have shown an amazing ability to get from their fellow Democrats and even from many Republicans co-operation and approval on the various pieces of legislation they wanted to see get through.

For both men next year the job of shepherding the legislation they want may be tougher, if only because there will be more Democrats in Congress.

Nevertheless, Rayburn and Johnson will be key men. Therefore in large measure the program produced by the Democratic Advisory Council will depend on Rayburn and Johnson.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

SHADES OF SIR LANCELOT!—Dragons have gone softy. In captivity, they get as friendly as cats. Djago, a 220-pound, 8' 9" East Indian dragon lizard, expresses sheer ecstasy as its toenails are manicured at Bronx zoo in New York by director-curator Dr. James A. Oliver (right). Head keeper Stephen Spencook is soothing the beast. Djago and his wife, 140-pound Tjantik, are the only dragon lizards on exhibition in the U. S. They were captured on the island of Komodo, east of Bali, and sold to the zoo for $5,000 in 1955.

Farm Bureau Still OKs Ike

Ag Agency Aide Finds Approval of Policies

Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Marvin L. McLain, here to speak before convention meetings, said he found virtually no opposition to a gradual withdrawal of government controls.

The Farm Bureau itself had advocated such policies, but recent Republican election setbacks in some farming areas had stirred speculation that farmers wanted more rather than less government aid.

At an open hearing held by the convention's Resolutions Committee, not a single voice was raised against this "less government in agriculture" theme.

Federation President Charles B. Shuman called—in a message to the convention—for legislation to curb powers of what he called the nation's "unscrupulous Socialist-labor political machine."

He said that unless this is done, the country would sink "into the morass of dead and dying economies that are so common in Western Europe." He said labor leaders are taking advantage of the situation to set up labor monopolies that would destroy the national economy.

Shuman outlined what he termed a simple three-point program to return farming to a prosperous base. It was: (1) discontinue all production controls, (2) lower price supports to a percentage of the previous three-year market price, and (3) freeze existing surpluses so that they cannot compete with new crops in domestic and foreign markets.

Shuman said the surpluses should be used only to help needy areas abroad not able to buy.

Minears Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Minear, quietly celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday (today) at their home, 310 N. North St.

They were married in the Methodist Church parsonage on East St., Washington C. H. by the Rev. Thomas W. Locke.

Mr. Minear retired in 1953 as a machinist with the General Electric Co., in Cleveland.

Vannorsdall, teacher; Mrs. Carroll Ritenour, assistant teacher; the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roush.

Santa Claus made his appearance and presented each child with a gift.

The gift exchange was held around a lighted Christmas tree.

Hungarian Shoppers Ask Color Sheets

BUDAPEST (AP)—Shoppers in Communist Hungary are complaining they can't find bed sheets in all the colors they want.

The nature of the complaint points up the increased quantity of consumer goods made available since the 1956 revolt against Russia. A few years ago, Hungarian housewives were happy when they could find any sheets for sale.

Problems of this kind are handled by the Ministry of Light Industry, headed by Mrs. Jozef Nagy. Apparently she has given orders to do something, because the ministry has gone in for the capitalist idea of consumer research.

Officials have been visiting government owned shops and interviewing customers about their likes and dislikes.

Sheets are generally available in white and pink, with an occasional unattractive blue or blue and white stripes.

The officials news agency MTI, reporting on the ministry's consumer research, said nothing about prices, which are high in terms of wages. A skilled workman has to put out a whole month's salary for a good suit.

Shuman said the surpluses should be used only to help needy areas abroad not able to buy.

Dem Liberals Seek Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic liberals, claiming added strength among newly elected congressmen, pushed plans today to demand a stronger voice in House Democratic councils.

Speeding up their organization, they tentatively scheduled for next Monday a meeting to polish up a plan of action and set their goals. They originally had planned to caucus early in January, only a few days before Congress convenes.

Making up the group are North-eastern and Westerners pledged to strong programs of civil rights and social legislation. They had been talking of centering their efforts on weakening the bill-killing power of the House Rules Committee, essentially controlled now by conservatives.

But some of them want to push also for more consideration of their own point of view by the leadership of the House. Declining to be quoted directly, members said several possible means of considering this are under consideration.

One would provide that members be consulted through the party whip and his assistants before party positions are taken.

Another would require more party caucuses. Now there normally is only one binding caucus each session, and it is limited to organization matters.

Still another proposal is to bring to life the dormant Democratic Policy Committee of the House.

One of the liberals said his group estimated its own minimum strength at 85, but that soundings among some of the newly elected

Democrats indicated it could count on a higher active membership.

The "hard-core Southerners," he said, total about 85, leaving about 100 Democrats in the new, heavily Democratic House not firmly attached to either pole.

The new House will have 283 democrats and 153 Republicans.

State School Board Eyes First Grade Age Minimum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education is asking to be put in a position something like that of an umpire on a close baseball play at homeplate. No matter what the decision, someone's going to be unhappy.

The problem of setting a uniform age limit for children to enroll in Ohio's schools. The state board voted Monday to ask the Legislature for permission to study the problem and set a uniform age.

State law says six, but the date when a youngster must have reached that age is left to the discretion of local school boards.

At the same time, the board approved a statement by its president, Elliott E. Meyers, asserting in effect that it is powerless to act on a plea that Roman Catholics be prohibited from teaching in the state's public schools.

A copy of a resolution urging enactment of a law to "prohibit persons officially related to a religious order from teaching in public schools of Ohio" was sent the state board by the Greater Cleveland Ministerial Assn.

It is the result of a Nov. 3 ruling by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe that nuns may wear religious garb while teaching in Waterford (Washington County).

The ministers' association says

it will ask the next Legislature to change the law to bar persons from a religious order from teaching in the public schools, hence the resolution.

Meyers' letter said the state board has jurisdiction only in training and certifying teachers. Hiring and firing, subject to legislative limitations, rest with local boards, he continued.

The attorney general, Meyers went on, is the board's legal advisor and must be looked to for interpretation of the law.

In one of its busiest sessions in months, the state board:

Increased the salary of W. Dwight Darling, assistant superintendent of public instruction, from $10,000 to $14,000 a year effective Dec. 16.

Approved a total $577,065 of the 1956 - 61 budget for operating schools for the deaf and blind in Columbus.

Agreed on an 18-point legislative program which the state board will recommend to the next General Assembly. The recommendations include:

Amendment of the school foundation law to increase teacher salaries, retirement and sick leave allowances, etc. and a 406.9 million budget for operating schools, including bus purchases and school now must be revoked every five years, causing an estimated 700-800 school elections in the state.

Restore to county boards of education the right to reorganize districts, subject to disapproval of the majority of voters in the affected area.

Include the public school system in any plan for a statewide educational television network, as recommended by the governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

In other decisions, the state board:

State School Board Eyes First Grade Age Minimum

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education is asking to be put in a position something like that of an umpire on a close baseball play at homeplate. No matter what the decision, someone's going to be unhappy.

The problem of setting a uniform age limit for children to enroll in Ohio's schools. The state board voted Monday to ask the Legislature for permission to study the problem and set a uniform age. State law says six, but the date when a youngster must have reached that age is left to the discretion of local school boards.

At the same time, the board approved a statement by its president, Elliott E. Meyers, asserting in effect that it is powerless to act on a plea that Roman Catholics be prohibited from teaching in the state's public schools.

A copy of a resolution urging enactment of a law to "prohibit persons officially related to a religious order from teaching in public schools of Ohio" was sent the state board by the Greater Cleveland Ministerial Assn.

It is the result of a Nov. 3 ruling by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe that nuns may wear religious garb while teaching in Waterford (Washington County). The ministers' association says it will ask the next Legislature to change the law to bar persons from a religious order from teaching in the public schools, hence the resolution.

Meyers' letter said the state board has jurisdiction only in training and certifying teachers. Hiring and firing, subject to legislative limitations, rest with local boards, he continued.

The attorney general, Meyers went on, is the board's legal advisor and must be looked to for interpretation of the law.

In one of its busiest sessions in months, the state board: Increased the salary of W. Dwight Darling, assistant superintendent of public instruction, from $10,000 to $14,000 a year effective Dec. 16.

Approved a total $577,065 of the 1956-61 budget for operating schools for the deaf and blind in Columbus.

Agreed on an 18-point legislative program which the state board will recommend to the next General Assembly. The recommendations include:

Amendment of the school foundation law to increase teacher salaries, retirement and sick leave allotments, etc. and a 406.9 million budget for operating schools, including bus purchases and school transportation, in 1959-61.

Approval of school bond issues and building levies by majority vote at any election. A special majority of 55 or 60 per cent, depending on whether it is a special or general election, is now required.

Permit school operating levies, once voted, to continue until repealed by referendum vote. They now must be revoked every five years, causing an estimated 700-800 school elections in the state.

Restore to county boards of education the right to reorganize districts, subject to disapproval of the majority of voters in the affected area.

Include the public school system in any plan for a statewide educational television network, as recommended by the governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

In other decisions, the state board:

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

The days of boots and bootjacks were somewhat trying (and primitive) to say the least. A lot of you older folks still are uncertain as to which was the most dreaded ordeal — pulling those leather boots on, or pulling them off.

If the boots were inclined to fit snugly, particularly after becoming wet and shrinking, it was a real task to pull the boots on — usually over heavy wool socks.

Removing the same boots was another task which was more or less disliked by the average wearer of the oldtime footwear — leather boots that extend well up toward the knees.

To keep the leather boots soft (sometimes we thought it was a hopeless job) we used unsalted lard, or tallow, heated until it was very thin, then applied liberally to the entire outer surface of the clumsy boots.

Prior to that the old timers used bear grease, wild turkey grease, and the fat from other wild game, with bear grease probably being the most popular, and most of the time abundant.

The leather boots had straps on each side at the top for use as fingerholds in pulling them on.

And, in most instances, particularly after the leather had shrunk it was necessary to use a bootjack. Those bootjacks were homemade but efficient.

A one-inch board about 16 to 20 inches in length, and five inches wide was shaped with a "V" sawed out at the larger end and smoothed down. The "V" was a grip to hold the heels of the boots when they were to be pulled off.

A cleat was nailed crossways a few inches back of the "jaws" of the bootjack, to lift the jaws from the floor.

Then, by placing one foot on the main part of the jack to hold it firm, and the heel of the boot on the other foot in the jaws of the jack, the operation of pulling off the boots, one at a time, began.

One man told me recently that his family always filled wet boots with oats at night. The oats would absorb the moisture and keep the boots from shrinking and becoming tight when they dried out.

But the boots and bootjack days, like those of the canals, interurbans, the little red school houses, horses and buggies, and many other things so essential in bygone days, have gone forever.

SANTA HAS PROBLEMS!

While in the Courthouse recently

I came face to face with Santa Claus.

He looked different from the old white whiskered Santa the youngsters all expect, and at first, during our conversation, I did not recognize him. But after a while he dropped some information that caused me to recognize him without further delay.

"Say, do you know its a real problem to get something for the youngsters nowadays?" he asked. He then proceeded:

"So many youngsters have such a range of things that the problem of getting them something they want is a big one, and takes some real thinking."

"Used to be most youngsters had so little in the way of toys that it was an easy matter to get something that would please them and make them very happy, but not any more."

Santa Claus shook his head almost in despair as he wondered how to please little folks without going bankrupt to do so.

As I looked at him I could not help but think how very much he resembled a farmer friend of mine who lives in Jasper Township.

Funny how one gets such ideas, isn't it?

RULING DAYS

There is an old belief that the first three days of December rule the remainder of the month, January and February, so that the kind of weather on these three "ruling days" indicate what may be expected during the three months.

I never paid much attention to these "ruling days", but many of the old timers were ready to proclaim the three days as unfailing indicators of the weather.

If the "ruling days" can be taken seriously this time, December, January and February will have a great deal of snow and some cold.

We shall see just how reliable these "ruling days" really are.

DOE DEER REPORTED

Another deer was seen in Fayette County recently, and this time Uel Schwartz was the observer. It was a doe on the Donald King farm off Miami Trace Rd.

It was a large one and apparently not very wild, for it paid little attention to automobiles passing along the road nearby.

Usually several deer are seen in this area during the fall and winter season.

Barbers Say Haircut Today Getting Rather Complicated

By JOHN NICHOLS
Lima Citizen Staff Writer

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—There is an institution called the haircut. Used to be you could meander down to the barber shop during your lunch hour, slide into the familiar, comfortable chair and get what is these days almost laughingly called a regular haircut.

In place of this simple word has come a whole new vocabulary of haircuts ranging from the near-bald product of the "butch" to a real jazzed version, known to the comb-and-scissor trade as the "Hollywood" or "Elvis."

Other names, too, crowd the modern roster of haircuts. For pure, pristine description of the finished product, how about the "pineapple," "semi," "burr," or "bird's nest?" A little more imagination is required for the "Detroit," "Madison Avenue," or "Caesar."

All this confusing nomenclature for what used to be a simple male chore has not yet turned the heads of the majority of barbers. For the most part, they manage to discourage their more zealous and style-conscious customers by requiring them to give such a detailed description of their particular "type" that everybody, including the customer, may give up and decide on a regular trim.

It costs more for the shorties, too. Most barbers add an extra 50 cents to cover the strain of concentration and depreciation on the clippers, which occurs with cuts like the "flat-top."

One barber in Lima was able to calculate the percentage of his trade which buys out-of-the-ordinary cuts by leafing through past days receipts. According to his estimate, one-third of his haircuts are the higher-priced variety.

What is the psychology behind the male animal's interest in something more than a trim?

Perhaps movies and other mass communication media can explain a cut such as the "Elvis." Characteristically, an "Elvis" is all hair and a mile high, hanging—deliberately—over the temples, and with long, slashing sideburns. Another cut—barber poles apart—is the "Madison Avenue" or "Princeton."

This chic job has its prototype in television star Perry Como. An inch long, it lays flat top and sides, small part on the left, and has a slight curl.

Another old stand-by for the teen-ager, those who are one year ahead of this classification, and some who are 20 jumps and as many years, is the "crew cut," elevated from its original status as the G. I. haircut.

Carried over into civilian life with a dash of nostalgia by millions of now-graying World War II veterans, the crew is further dignified by being known as the "Ivy League" cut. It causes gray hairs among the clip-and-snip set because imperfections in the shape of hair and skull show up clearly. Thus, the extra charge.

A "butch," is more radical than the "crew cut" and falls between the young boy's "baldy" and a Russian soldier's shaved head.

One of the hottest haircuts today is the "Detroit," which also is called the "Dutch," "Chicago," or "California." They all mean the same thing—short like a crew on top and a normal trim on the sides.

When faced with a welter of "fenders," "D. A. wings," and sideburns, which are part of the modern haircut, one barber said: "The worst part is really the name."

New Bell Phone Rate Schedule Handed PUCO

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you are one of Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s million-and-a-half customers, you'll read the result of a current rate case in future phone bills.

Ohio Bell filed a compromise rate schedule with the Utilities Commission Monday. It's a compromise, because the company scaled down its original request for a 28-million-dollar annual increase or rates that it says should bring in about $16,750,000 more annually.

That $16,750,000 goes on the bills of Ohio customers. Home phone users in about 200 cities and towns face proposed increases ranging from 20 cents to $1.05 a month.

Business rates would be upped 70 cents to $2.15. This is before taxes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you are one of Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s million-and-a-half customers, you'll read the result of a current rate case in future phone bills.

Ohio Bell filed a compromise rate schedule with the Utilities Commission Monday. It's a compromise, because the company scaled down its original request for a 28-million-dollar annual increase or rates that it says should bring in about $16,750,000 more annually.

That $16,750,000 goes on the bills of Ohio customers. Home phone users in about 200 cities and towns face proposed "increases ranging from 20 cents to $1.05 a month. Business rates would be upped 70 cents to $2.15. This is before taxes.

The Persian King Xerxes was so annoyed when a storm destroyed a bridge he had built, he ordered his soldiers to administer three hundred lashes to the body of water in punishment.

Queen Victoria once sent a command to Buffalo Bill to give a special performance for her. She liked it so much that she demanded a second "command performance."

Warning Out On Rosy 1959 Predictions

Research Institute
Lists Some 'Dangers'
It Sees Developing

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—A warning against letting the crush of rosy predictions for 1959 lead you into trouble is sounded today. It comes from those who hold that the danger signs are there even though they, too, believe the general outlook is bright.

For the individual business the danger lies mostly in how its top men react to the predictions — whether they base their plans on their hopes rather than on their reasoned expectations.

The Research Institute of America lists some of the dangers it sees gathering force. It says it gets much of its data from confidential reports of 30,000 firms it serves, as well as from official statistics and indicators.

The institute says its general prediction for 1959 — definitely on the bright side, but here are the dangers that could cause trouble before the middle of next year:

1. In many of its reporting companies production has jumped faster than demand. This is natural since in the early months of the slump output was cut back more steeply than sales fell. The danger: Unless demand rises more than is now indicated, many industries could find themselves with unsold stocks building up again. Result: Another slowdown in production—another slump.

2. In some companies inventory rebuilding plans have gone beyond current sales. Danger: If sales expectations don't pan out, orders to suppliers could be cut below levels justified by actual sales at the time.

3. Believe that a general price increase is just around the corner is leading some businessmen to over-ordering. Danger: When the price rises are delayed, future orders will be deflated sharply—another slump.

4. Retail sales figures just now are misleading because they were dropping a year ago. Favorable comparisons don't prove a new boom is here.

5. Basic economic indicators are behaving erratically now. And the interruption of a clear direction should lead business executives to use caution in setting future policy.

What seems to worry the institute most is: "What businessmen are experiencing today is an early stage of a prolonged recovery from a greatly reduced level of activity. And it is occurring in an atmosphere less favorable to a new wave of prosperity than late 1954 or late 1949." So the pattern of this recovery is different from the earlier ones.

Experience Counts In Space Piloting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space pilots who will man the Dyna-Soar—the most advanced weapon system under development today—will be chosen because of their experience and not their age.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Assn. says the pilots selected for the initial flight on the Dyna-Soar — a manned boost-glide vehicle with orbital flight potential—will be approximately five feet ten, and weigh between 150 and 155 pounds.

Their training will include being whirled in huge centrifuges and making simulated space flights with many of the expected conditions duplicated.

Eugene O'Neill's first Pulitzer Prize play was "Beyond the Horizon" in 1920.

FORE!—Actress Jill St. John may not be able to drive that oversized golf ball far, but she makes a fetching picture on the fairway. She is drawing attention to the 33rd annual $40,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament, which gets underway on December 31.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Having found a note calling for help, Esteban has gone to the Castle on the Hill to see what the note could mean. As he reached the door there was a loud crash and the only light in the castle went out. The door slowly opens.

CHAPTER FIVE THE STRANGE PROFESSOR

Esteban stood petrified by the awful crash and the sudden darkness in the castle. The door opened slowly and a voice from the blackness said:

"Come in, please."

Esteban tried to move but his legs wouldn't work. He wished he could run away.

Suddenly a hand came out of the darkness and grasped his arm.

"Come in, whoever you are. Don't stand there in the rain."

"T-that crash!" stammered Esteban. "What was that?"

"Oh," said the voice, "that was thunder. And the storm has put out the light. Come in the hall and I will light candles."

His heart still pounding, Esteban followed the voice inside and the door slammed shut behind him. An instant later a candle was lighted and Esteban found himself looking into the kind, sad eyes of a handsome man.

"There now! Feel better?" asked the man.

"Much better," nodded Esteban with relief.

"I am Professor Szpilki. Who are you?"

Esteban started to say he was an elf, or used to be an elf, but then he thought perhaps he better not mention that. So he said, "I am a shoeshine boy and I found a note in a shoe that came from here."

The professor turned away and lighted more candles. "And what did the note say?" he asked.

As the hall grew brighter Esteban felt safer. He began to feel silly at repeating such a message. But he said, "Well, the note asked for help."

Professor Szpilki looked startled. "What an odd message," he

"Charlotte," asked the professor, "did you send for help?"

exclaimed. "But my little girl and I live here alone and the note could not have come from here."

Esteban looked around the great hall. It was beautiful and peaceful.

He turned to the professor. "Has your little girl a pair of red velvet slippers embroidered in gold?"

"Why, yes," said Professor Szpilki. "She insisted I send them for repair though they didn't really need it. That was weeks ago. I must call for them."

"They're the ones, then," exclaimed Esteban. "That's where I found the note."

"Nonsense! I'll call my daughter."

He pulled a cord and a bell rang far overhead. A few moments later a curly-haired girl ran down the great stairs.

"Charlotte," said the professor sternly. "This boy says he found a note in your slipper calling for help. Do you know anything about such a note?"

Charlotte's eyes widened.

"No," whispered the child.

Women Plagued By Propaganda

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
The modern wife is a creature harassed by propaganda and harried by TV commercials.

All day long, from the minute she opens her morning newspaper until she turns off the late-late show at night, she is beset by ominous commands, warnings and downright threats, such as these:

"When you use a deodorant, are you SURE?"

"Don't drive your husband away from home with detergent hands!"

"When he kisses you, WHAT ABOUT YOUR BREATH?"

"If you want to hold your husband, better use the perfume that never fails, ATOMIC APPLE BLOSSOMS."

"If you don't buy MAGNETIC LIPSTICK NOW — your husband will look for it on another girl."

"Does your husband rush home at night? IF NOT, LOOK OUT!"

"Give him our HAPPY PILLS and enjoy a new outlook on marriage."

All these and more combine to give the average wife a feeling of desperate insecurity. She feels that if she doesn't look like Marilyn Monroe, dress like Mrs. Harrison Williams, entertain like Elsa Maxwell and smell like a perfume shop, she's in danger of losing her happy home.

Most of this is a lot of nonsense, says Hugo A. Bourdeau, a Baltimore marriage counselor, who writes in the current issue of Coronet magazine:

"The modern American woman is being greatly oversold on the importance of sex in marriage."

He believes that women all over the country are developing jitters, ulcers and nervous breakdowns trying to live up to the movie versions of sex appeal.

Companionship and teamwork, hoping and building together, are some of the most important ingredients of a happy marriage. And if you can go through hard times together and still be friends, you're a success.

"I'm sorry I bothered you," mumbled Esteban opening the door. And he thought, What a fool I have been!

"Goodbye," he said from his steps and he turned to wave.

Then his mouth fell open because suddenly he saw a look of fear in the child's eyes and her lips formed the silent words, "Come back! Come back!"

As Esteban stared in astonishment, the professor said cheerily, "Goodbye, my boy," and the door was firmly closed.

McCoy Trial May Be Short

Jury's Main Problem; Granting of Mercy

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—The murder trial of Russell McCoy, 24, of Zanesville went into its second day today with the prosecution and defense agreed it would be a short trial in which the jury's main problem would be to decide whether or not to recommend mercy.

McCoy already has admitted during testimony in an earlier trial of Harry Dale Bundy that he took part in a grocery store holdup in which the man he is accused of killing was slain.

Bundy, 40, also of Zanesville, was convicted, but then in a second trial was acquitted last June in the slaying of Reynold Amodio, 31, owner of the County Line Market on Ohio 8 north of Uniontown, Nov. 23, 1956.

As a state witness against Bundy, McCoy had testified that Bundy shot Amodio and he (McCoy) killed Paul Cain, 35 a clerk in the store, during a holdup in which about $400 was stolen.

In the current trial, McCoy also is up on a first degree murder charge in the slaying of Amodio, although Prosecutor Norman J. Putman concedes it may have been more logical to have brought McCoy to trial on the Cain killing.

McCoy is under indictment for both and admits being the trigger man in the clerk's slaying.

However, Putman points out, the matter of who fired which shots won't be of major importance, Cain and Amodio were slain by bullets from different pistols. McCoy's admitted participation in the holdup is sufficient to send him to the electric chair on the Amodio indictment unless the jury recommends mercy.

McCoy had asked Common Pleas Judge George N. Graham for a speedy trial.

Putman did not ask for the death penalty for McCoy. He said later, when asked about this, that it was not particularly unusual since in 10 murder cases he has tried he never has asked for a death sentence.

In addition to the two holdup slayings near Uniontown, McCoy has admitted fatally shooting his half-sister, Louise See, 46, and her husband, Lloyd, 39, and then setting fire to their cabin near Norwich on Feb. 9, 1957. He is under indictment for murder in these killings in Muskingum County.

Nuclear Subs With Missiles Near Reality

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—Missile packing nuclear submarines that can carry atomic warheads within reach of any part of the globe are only weeks away from reality.

The USS Halibut, which the Navy says will be the world's first of this type, will be launched next month at Mare Island Naval Shipyard, San Francisco.

The submarine missile firing system has been duplicated on a surface vessel and will be tested today for the first time with the launching of a Regulus II guided missile from the Pacific missile range here.

The USS King County, a converted World War II tank landing ship, will be the first surface ship to send a Regulus II aloft.

One of these missiles was launched by the conventionally powered submarine Grayback last September, but the Grayback did not have the intricate firing and tracking facilities going into the nuclear Halibut.

The 11-ton, 57-foot Regulus II has been fired successfully many times. A guided missile, it differs from ballistic missiles in that it can be directed in flight. Ballistic missiles, like artillery shells, are largely beyond outside control once they are fired.

The Regulus II has a shorter range than the big intercontinental ballistic missiles—1,000 miles compared with their 6,000 miles—but nuclear submarines can take it secretly almost to the shores of an enemy nation.

Scholarships Offered For Short Ag Course

The second annual eight-week short course entitled "Science in Agriculture for Young Farmers" will be given on the Ohio State University campus Jan. 5 to Feb. 27.

The course is for young farmers 19 through 35 years of age, and is designed to give the latest practical farm knowledge.

Classes will be given in the following courses: Farm Business Management; Fertilizers and Fertility, Milk Production and Herd Management, Feeding Farm Animals, Livestock Production and Management Animal Breeding and Selection, Pasture Improvement and Forage Corps, Poultry Management, Farm Electricity, Farm Pests and Weed Control, Farm Machinery and Rural Leadership.

The Fayette County Farm Bureau and the Farm Bureau Cooperative Assn. have made available two $75 scholarships which the Fayette County students may use to help defray expenses of the short course. The average total expenses for the eight weeks varies from $150 to $250, depending upon whether the student resides in Columbus or commutes daily.

Last year Curt Coll, Route 1, Bloomingburg, was the only student from Fayette County who took the short course.

Only 40 first-year students can be accommodated in the short course. According to a recent check of the enrollment, 30 have already signed up. Any young farmer interested in attending should consult the Extension Service office for more details and get an application blank, Extension agent Phil Grover said.

Wildcats Chalk Third
Win in Row as Irish
Quintet Is Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new college basketball era may be dawning for Northwestern long a stepchild among Big Ten titans. Meanwhile, once-mighty Kansas, a perennial Big Seven threat, faces lean days this season without Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain.

Northwestern, picked up Purdue as the Big Ten preseason favorites, is justifying the evaluations thus far. The Wildcats, 10th in the first Associated Press weekly poll, turned back Notre Dame, No. 11 in the listings, 68-63 Monday night.

The victory was Northwestern's third in a row.

Kansas, No. 7, bowed to upstart Denver 73-60 for its first setback after victories over Rice and Canisius. The 7-foot Chamberlain joined the Harlem Globetrotters after two seasons at Kansas.

Joe Ruklick clicked for 30 points as Northwestern snapped Notre Dame's streak of 18 straight victories at home. The lead changed hands 13 times and the score was tied 12 times before a pair of jump shots by Phil Warren put the Wildcats in front to stay.

Unheralded Denver spurred for 42 points in the second half after leading 31-29 at the intermission to humble Kansas.

Only two other members of the top 10 saw action. Kentucky, No. 2, turned on the power in the second half to throttle Duke 78-64. Sid Cohen led the way with 19 points. Eighth-ranked Mississippi State, behind Bailey Howell's 29-point barrage, wallowed Arkansas State 72-57.

North Carolina (No. 13), leading at halftime by just one point, began to click after the intermission and routed Virginia 83-61 with Harvey Salt hitting for 19 points. Michigan State (No. 15) outlasted Butler 72-46. Johnny Green sparked the Spartans with 18 points.

Marquette, No. 17, lost to Nebraska 62-60 despite a second-half rally that just fell short. The Cornhuskers led 33-26 at halftime. SMU, No. 18, easily disposed of Wisconsin 81-63. St. John's of New York, tied for 20th place led all the way to wallop Bridgeport 98-56.

Pettit Emerges
As Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks produced 105 points in four games last week to displace rookie Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers as the leading scorer in the National Basketball Assn.

Pettit, the 1955-56 scoring champion, has compiled 583 points in 20 games, figures released by league headquarters disclosed today. His 29.2 average also is tops.

Baylor, who only played one game last week, dropped to second with 533 points in 21 games. Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors, a two-time scoring leader, ranks third with 516 in 20 games. Arizin was fourth a week ago.

Cincy Bearcat
'5' Voted Top Cage Outfit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Cincinnati, which achieved a top 10 ranking in basketball for the first time last season, and perennially strong Kentucky, 1958 NCAA champion, are the choices of the experts as the teams to beat this season.

In the first Associated Press poll of the season, Cincinnati's Bearcats were a solid No. 1 and Kentucky a strong second. These ratings were based on the results of games through last Saturday, Dec. 6, and on the opinions of 102 participating sports writers and broadcasters.

Cincinnati's high rating unquestionably was based in part on the fact that the Bearcats still have All America Oscar Robertson while such stars of last season as Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor have gone on to pro ball.

The Bearcats were given first place on 38 of the 102 ballots and amassed a total of 834 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Kentucky drew 20 first-place votes and 695 points. Kansas State, with only 10 firsts to 17 for West Virginia, edged the Mountaineers for third 641 to 634.

Completing the first 10 were North Carolina State, Tennessee, Kansas, Mississippi State, St. Louis and Northwestern. All were unbeaten through Saturday.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Cincinnati (38)	834
2. Kentucky (20)	695
3. Kansas State (10)	641
4. West Virginia (17)	634
5. N. C. State (5)	563
6. Tennessee (2)	535
7. Kansas	535
8. Mississippi State (9)	517
9. St. Louis	517
10. Northwestern	448

The second 10: Notre Dame 130; Auburn 127; North Carolina 112; St. Mary's (Calif.) 101; Michigan State 91; Xavier (Ohio) 85; Marquette 77; Southern Methodist 69; Indiana 60; Oklahoma State; and St. John's (NY) 56 each.

Venezuelan Named
As Redleg Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs' new third base coach is Reggie Otero, 43, successful manager of Latin-American baseball teams in recent years.

The Reds picked him Monday. He is currently at the helm of Venezuela's Valencia team, a pennant winner last year and in first place now in the winter league.

Otero broke into pro baseball in 1935 and moved around in the minors until 1945 when he played with the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs. For the past two years he has coached the Reds' Monterey club in the Mexican League.

Legion Junior Baseball Meet
Is Wednesday

Although the fields are covered with snow, plans for next summer's Legion Junior baseball program here will be outlined at a meeting in American Legion Hall, 212 N. Fayette St., at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

John Breiner and Max Lawrence, who have agreed to take charge of the program here next year, set up the meeting for all boys who will not be 18 years old before Sept. 1 next year.

They have figured that 68 boys have graduated from the Babe Ruth League in the last two years and that there are at least that many more boys in the community who are eligible for the Legion Junior team.

They emphasized that the Legion Junior program is open to all boys who are eligible and is not limited to graduates of the Babe Ruth League.

Breiner and Lawrence will explain to the boys at Wednesday night's meeting just what the Legion Junior program is, what its purposes are, the advantages it offers and what the boys, themselves, can do during the winter to get ready for tryouts next spring.

Practice will start before the schools' summer vacation but the schedule of games will not start until after schools close for the summer. Boys playing on high school teams, they pointed out, will be in a position to move right into the Legion Junior program.

Basketball Games
To Be Played as Scheduled Tonight

The basketball games scheduled for Tuesday (tonight) by the three Fayette County teams will be played — providing there is no more snow or other interference by the weather.

Robert Melick, principal of the New Holland High School, said classes are in session there and that "as of right now (9:47 a. m.) we are planning for the game with Good Hope tonight."

Melick said he had talked with Principal Roger Hoffman of the Good Hope school and he had told him that, although the school there was closed by bad roads, there was no intention to call off the game — unless the weather gets worse.

Jeffersonville's Tigers will go to Sabina for their game, too. Both the Jeffersonville and Sabina schools are in session, although attendance at the Sabina school was cut by snowy roads.

Principal Harry Phillips of Jeffersonville said at mid-morning that the Tigers are expecting to play and will go to Sabina if there is no more snow.

Good Hope Juniors Win
From New Hollanders

Good Hope Junior cagers defeated the New Holland Juniors, 30 to 20, in a game played Monday noon in the Good Hope gym.

Gary Kimball was high scorer with 16 points.

Durelle Says
Fans To See
Bloody Fight

MONTREAL, Que. (AP)—Yvon Durelle thinks his title fight with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore is going to be such a great battle that he'd like to see it himself.

"The fans want to see a bloody fight and they'll get it from me," said the rugged fighting fisherman who gets his crack at able Archie in the Montreal Forum Wednesday night.

"I don't think it will go to a finish," Durelle said. "It will end in the 11th or 12th round for one of us. I'm going to throw everything I've got into it. I've got to get close to him to pitch. He's got to come close to fight."

He is the 14-5 favorite to make good in his seventh defense of the crown he won nearly six years ago from Joey Maxim.

All old Archie would say was that he hoped to break the all-time knockout record and that he hoped eventually to become the light heavyweight ruler with the longest reign.

Moore holds the knockout record jointly with the late Young Stribling, a heavyweight contender of some 25 years ago. Each has scored 126 knockouts.

'Gray Eagle' of Baseball,
Tris Speaker, Dies at 70

HUBBARD, Tex. (AP) — Tris Speaker, the famed "Gray Eagle" of the major leagues, died Monday and baseball mourned the passing of one of its greatest stars.

A heart attack claimed the man who was called the finest center fielder of all time. He died after a fishing trip at Lake Whitney, 30 miles west of his home here.

From the high echelons and from the bushes of baseball came messages of sorrow. Speaker was lauded for the tremendous contribution he made to the game he loved so well that he played it for 34 years.

The body was brought to Hubbard and is at the Wolfe Funeral Home.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery where his father and mother and other kinsmen are buried.

Speaker and a fishing crony, Charles Vaughn, had pulled their boat into the dock after an afternoon on Lake Whitney. The 70-year-old member of Baseball's Hall of Fame collapsed and died. Dr. John Latham of Whitney, the attending physician, certified that the cause was coronary occlusion.

Speaker had had one previous heart attack—in 1954. Last August he entered a Cleveland hospital for observation as a precautionary measure. He had been experiencing pains in his arms.

But Mrs. Speaker said he had been feeling well lately, going fishing three or four times a week. "He liked to be outdoors," she said.

Abilene, Tex., and Mrs. Pearl Scott of Hubbard.

Speaker was a great left-handed hitter with a lifetime major league batting average of .344 in 22 seasons with the Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics. His highest average was .359 in 1925. He also was a great defensive player. He was on three world championship teams — Boston in 1912 and 1915 and Cleveland in 1920. He managed the latter team from 1919 to 1926.

Speaker started in professional baseball in 1906 with Cleburne of the Texas League. The day he signed a contract he was "fined" $10.00. Doak Roberts, president of the Cleburne club, told about it years later.

Roberts had driven in his bright new buggy to the field where Speaker was playing a semipro game. He called Tris over to talk contract and Speaker, wearing baseball spikes, climbed onto the hub of the buggy. Roberts noted he had scraped some of the paint off so he signed Speaker to a contract at $40 a month. Roberts had meant to make it $50, but held back the $10 to repair the buggy.

Speaker started as a pitcher but couldn't get the other side out. The Cleburne club was going to release him but the owner, noting that Speaker was a fine hitter, kept him and sent him to the outfield. He went on to major league glory.

BOWLING

THE STANCE in bowling is a standing position where you are gripping the ball and taking aim at the pins. It should be a comfortable and relaxed position.

The exact spot on the alley approach where you take your stance depends on the number and length of steps you use. For the standard four-step delivery and average length steps, the spot for the stance is about 12 feet back of the foul line.

For the right-handed bowler, the spot would be 12 feet back and to the right of the center rangefinder dot for the first ball in any frame. How much to the right of center depends on the characteristics of your ball—whether you are rolling a straight ball, a hook or a curve.

In your stance, you should be holding the ball in both hands, with the weight of the ball resting mainly on the left hand—if you are right handed. You should be facing the pins and concentrating on your target.

If your stance doesn't feel right, try extending one foot or the other slightly in front of the body. Sometimes this helps to relieve tension before starting your approach. Whichever foot you move, keep the weight evenly divided between the feet. Don't balance on one foot at anytime in the stance.

Remember that this spot you select for your stance is the same spot you will use at all times in bowling.

Northwestern Seen Power in Big 10 Cage

Wildcats Chalk Third Win in Row as Irish Quintet Is Defeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new college basketball era may be dawning for Northwestern long a stepchild among Big Ten titans. Meanwhile, once-mighty Kansas, a perennial Big Seven threat, faces lean days this season without Wilt (The Silt) Chamberlain.

Northwestern, picked with Purdue as the Big Ten preseason favorites, is justifying the evaluations thus far. The Wildcats, 10th in the first Associated Press weekly poll, turned back Notre Dame, No. 11 in the listings, 68-63 Monday night.

The victory was Northwestern's third in a row.

Kansas, No. 7, bowed to upstart Denver 73-60 for its first setback after victories over Rice and Canisius. The 7-foot Chamberlain joined the Harlem Globetrotters after two seasons at Kansas.

Joe Ruklick clicked for 30 points as Northwestern snapped Notre Dame's streak of 18 straight victories at home. The lead changed hands 13 times and the score was tied 12 times before a pair of jump shots by Phil Warren put the Wildcats in front to stay.

Unheralded Denver spurred for 42 points in the second half after leading 31-29 at the intermission to humble Kansas.

Only two other members of the top 10 saw action. Kentucky, No. 2, turned on the power in the second half to throttle Duke 78-64. Sid Cohen led the way with 19 points. Eighth-ranked Mississippi State, behind Bailey Howell's 29-point barrage, walloped Arkansas State 72-57.

North Carolina (No. 13), leading at halftime by just one point, began to click after the intermission and routed Virginia 83-61 with Harvey Salt hitting for 19 points. Michigan State (No. 15) outclassed Butler 72-46. Johnny Green sparked the Spartans with 18 points.

Marquette, No. 17, lost to Nebraska 62-60 despite a second-half rally that just fell short. The Cornhuskers led 33-26 at halftime. SMU, No. 18, easily disposed of Wisconsin 81-63. St. John's of New York, tied for 20th place, led all the way to wallopp Bridgeport 98-56.

Pettit Emerges As Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks produced 103 points in four games last week to displace rookie Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers as the leading scorer in the National Basketball Assn.

Pettit, the 1955-56 scoring champion, has compiled 583 points in 20 games, figures released by league headquarters disclosed today. His 29.2 average also is tops. Baylor, who only played one game last week, dropped to second with 535 points in 21 games. Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors, a two-time scoring leader, ranks third with 516 in 20 games. Arizin was fourth a week ago.

Cincy Bearcat '5' Voted Top Cage Outfit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Cincinnati, which achieved a top 10 ranking in basketball for the first time last season, and perennially strong Kentucky, 1958 NCAA champion, are the choices of the experts as the teams to beat this season.

In the first Associated Press poll of the season, Cincinnati's Bearcats were a solid No. 1 and Kentucky a strong second. These ratings were based on the results of games through last Saturday, Dec. 6, and on the opinions of 102 participating sports writers and broadcasters.

Cincinnati's high rating unquestionably was based in part on the fact that the Bearcats still have All America Oscar Robertson while such stars of last season as Wilt Chamberlain and Elgin Baylor have gone on to pro ball.

The Bearcats were given first place on 38 of the 102 ballots and amassed a total of 834 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Kentucky drew 20 first-place votes and 695 points. Kansas State, with only 10 firsts to 17 for West Virginia, edged the Mountaineers for third 641 to 634.

Completing the first 10 were North Carolina State, Tennessee, Kansas, Mississippi State, St. Louis and Northwestern. All were unbeaten through Saturday.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Cincinnati (38)	834
2. Kentucky (20)	695
3. Kansas State (10)	641
4. West Virginia (17)	634
5. N. C. State (5)	363
6. Tennessee (2)	335
7. Kansas	184
8. Mississippi State (9)	177
9. St. Louis	151
10. Northwestern	148

The second 10: Notre Dame 130; Auburn 127; North Carolina 112; St. Mary's (Calif.) 101; Michigan State 91; Xavier (Ohio) 85; Marquette 77; Southern Methodist 69; Indiana 60; Oklahoma State; and St. John's (NY) 56 each.

Venezuelan Named As Redleg Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs' new third base coach is Reggie Otero, 43, successful manager of Latin-American baseball teams in recent years.

The Reds picked him Monday. He is currently at the helm of Venezuela's Valencia team, a pennant winner last year and in first place now in the winter league.

Otero broke into pro baseball in 1935 and moved around in the minors until 1945 when he played with the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs. For the past two years he has coached the Reds' Monterey club in the Mexican League.

"It's going to be a corker. The customers don't pay to see me dance and I can't dance. I'm going to win or they're going to carry me out."

That was as far as the 29-year-old Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion would go today in predicting the outcome of Canada and Montreal's first world title fight in five years.

THE STANCE in bowling is a standing position where you are gripping the ball and taking aim at the pins. It should be a comfortable and relaxed position.

The exact spot on the alley approach where you take your stance depends on the number and length of steps you use. For the standard four-step delivery and average length steps, the spot for the stance is about 12 feet back of the foul line.

For the right-handed bowler, the spot would be 12 feet back and to the right of the center rangefinder dot for the first ball in any frame. How much to the right of center depends on the characteristics of your ball—whether you are rolling a straight ball, a hook or a curve.

In your stance, you should be holding the ball in both hands, with the weight of the ball resting mainly on the left hand—if you are right handed. You should be facing the pins and concentrating on your target.

If your stance doesn't feel right, try extending one foot or the other slightly in front of the body. Sometimes this helps to relieve tension before starting your approach. Whichever foot you move, keep the weight evenly divided between the feet. Don't balance on one foot at anytime in the stance.

Remember that this spot you

select for your stance is the same spot you will use at all times in bowling.

Next, we'll get started on the delivery.

Cincy Pacifist Shuns Share Of Estate

CINCINNATI (AP)—A stubborn minister, now in jail for court contempt, says he wants no part of his mother's estate.

The Rev. Maurice McCrackin, controversial minister in tax trouble with the government, filed notice in Probate Court Monday renouncing his one-third share of the $15,000 estate. The pastor's mother died Oct. 15, leaving her estate in equal parts to two sons and a daughter.

Federal tax agents have already filed a lien against the estate in the pastor's failure to pay income tax.

But the pastor's action Monday may open a new difficulty, with the federal government.

Probate Court aides said Ohio law allows an heir to refuse an inheritance, but it brings up a new question of a federal gift tax.

The action may be considered a gift to other heirs and thus subject to federal tax law. Probate Judge Chase Davies must decide this point.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin has been in jail since Nov. 24 after he was cited for contempt at an arraignment session in which he refused to take any part.

He is slated for trial next Friday on an indictment charging he failed to heed a summons to a conference on his income tax.

He has refused to pay tax for years, saying it is against his conscience because the money helps pay for war weapons.

Cincy Pacifist Shuns Share Of Estate

CINCINNATI (AP)—A stubborn minister, now in jail for court contempt, says he wants no part of his mother's estate.
The Rev. Maurice McCrackin, controversial minister in tax trouble with the government, filed notice in Probate Court Monday renouncing his one-third share of the $15,000 estate. The pastor's mother died Oct. 15, leaving her estate in equal parts to two sons and a daughter.
Federal tax agents have already filed a lien against the estate in the pastor's failure to pay income tax.
But the pastor's action Monday may open a new difficulty, with the federal government.
Probate Court aides said Ohio law allows an heir to refuse an inheritance, but it brings up a new question of a federal gift tax.
The action may be considered a gift to other heirs and thus subject to federal tax law. Probate Judge Chase Davies must decide this point.
The Rev. Mr. McCrackin has been in jail since Nov. 24 after he was cited for contempt at an arraignment session in which he refused to take any part.
He is slated for trial next Friday on an indictment charging he failed to heed a summons to a conference on his income tax.
He has refused to pay tax for years, saying it is against his conscience because the money helps pay for war weapons.

State Board Ends Survey Efforts

said that after considering the matter carefully he felt he had been wrong and that the board had been wrong in voting for a survey and that further activity along that line is "pointless." "This board should not be paternalistic," he declared.
"The battle lines have been drawn for a long time in Fayette County and the majority has approved a program," Shaffer said. "The time for a survey is past."

Manchester countered that education is in a period of transition—that local boards can arrange for surveys at any time and that the state board should take a stand on surveys only in times of controversy, pointing out the Fayette County case as a stellar example of controversy.

He observed that the population of Washington C. H. is growing while the rural population of Fayette County is declining.
"I don't care what a survey shows as long as we get the facts," he declared. "A survey in this situation is our duty," he told the board, adding that if the board backed down, the whole area of surveys would be endangered.

MANCHESTER insisted that neither Fayette County nor the State Board had the facts of the case at issue and lashed out at the Fayette rural boards for their general attitude toward a survey and what he termed attempts to conceal pertinent information. He also questioned whether transportation in the rural school system is costing too much of the taxpayer's dollar.

"We should continue our efforts for a survey until the rural boards get down on their knees and then make a recommendation," Manchester concluded.

Board President Elliott E. Myers, who did not vote on the final motion, observed that the Kent State survey team, which started the survey here and then terminated its efforts because of what they termed lack of cooperation on the part of the rural boards, had reported difficulty in getting required information.

Board member Jeanette S. Wagner was critical of the Fayette County minority group for what she termed "the way the possibility of a survey has been used" as a delaying tactic and to fight the Miami Trace operating levy.

Board member Paul Walker, who said he had made a survey of Miami Trace bus transportation, added that he still favored efforts toward a survey. However, he publicly commended Walter W. Boyer, Miami Trace executive head, for his prompt cooperation in making bus route information available.

BOARD VICE PRESIDENT Loren E. Souers Jr., who voted to terminate survey efforts, pointed out that he disapproved of a letter campaign addressed to state board members by rural residents, many of whom were employees of the Miami Trace system, but that he also disapproved of "sabotage tactics" by the minority faction.

"Both sides," he said, "have been guilty of wrongdoing," citing an early refusal of the Miami Trace office to produce records.

"No community will have better schools than it desires, and I have serious doubts whether either the Miami Trace or city schools are what they should be."

"The children in this case are the losers. God help the parents," he concluded.

DURING PUBLIC participation preceding the board action on the Fayette County case, Mrs. Jean C. Rhoad and Sam B. Marting stated the minority group's position for a survey, and Joe Asher, New Holland, attorney for the Miami Trace Majority Taxpayers Committee, represented parents and other citizens allied with the rural majority.

There was a sharp conflict of opinions, punctuated by pungent exchanges between Asher and Marting.

Mrs. Rhoad stated that the rural boards have spent more than $11,000 in attorney fees, reviewed the early refusal of the Miami Trace office to produce minutes and records and explained why she and two other Fayette County women had brought a mandamus action.

Mrs. Rhoad, illustrating her presentation with maps and graphs, told the board that if the rural boards believe they have a really satisfactory program they would welcome a survey.

"There is no question but that we in Fayette County would approve the very best program this board could recommend," she added.

MARTING assured the board that "we want the best schools in Ohio." He said that the Fayette County superintendent fought a 11 consolidation and "we forced it." But Marting said the group he represents thinks that consolidation should go one step further (a city-county consolidation), although Marting emphasized that "We don't know — that is why we want a survey to get the facts."

Marting pointed out that the $5,000 raised to pay a part of the survey costs came from five men who willingly signed notes and that since that time citizens from all walks of life have contributed nickels and dimes through fish fries, luncheons and entertainments.

(The Washington C. H. Board of Education, on Nov. 25, made a check payable to State Board of Education as its one-third share of an $864 bill from Kent State University for services performed before Kent State withdrew from its contract for a survey. The city board originally had set aside $2,500 for purposes of the survey.)

ASHER TOLD the board he represents 2,600 parents and citizens who have banded together to speed up construction of the rural high school.

Displaying an architect's drawing of the proposed school, he observed that "our children would be in this modern building if we hadn't been obstructed by a minority group."

Concluding his remarks, Asher declared that the minority group "can't win at the polls" and is "using" the State Board in a delaying action. "Does the State Board, with its many important problems, wish to lend itself to this type of obstructionism?", he asked.

Billy Houghton Listed as Top Driver Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The United States Trotting Assn. has reviewed the records for 1958 and driver-trainer Billy Houghton of Brookville, N. Y., is up on top of the lists once again.

The 35-year-old Houghton had 176 victories this year for an all time record and his sixth consecutive dash-winning championship. And for the seventh time in a row he's holder of the money-won title. Horses Houghton drove personally earned $816,659, highest in harness racing history, and his stable earned $1,022,761.40.

A Hamburg, N. Y., driver, Buddy Gilmour, won 155 times to become Houghton's nearest rival, the same as in 1957.

Not counted in official statistics released today are victories scored in matinees and qualifying races.

Tom Brown, Now 43, Unable To Shake Juvenile Casting

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This may come as a surprise to movie producers, but Tom Brown is no longer eligible to play halfback for the Culver or Annapolis varsity.

Tom may look like a juvenile in the rah-rah films on the late, late TV show. But he's nearing 44, has white hair and a sandy mustache and is mature of face.

"But I can't get producers to think of me this way," the actor complained. "When my name is mentioned in casting, they generally say 'he's too young.'"

He's making some progress, however. He has good roles in two forthcoming Western films and will be seen on two upcoming CBS shows "Have Gun Will Travel" and "December Bride." If his luck continues, Tom might make it.

But it has been a rugged go. Tom's fight to make a living in the acting business has been a long and often losing one.

How do you figure it? The name of Tom Brown is familiar to most movie goers. He's a handsome, capable performer.

"One of my problems was that I wasn't under contract to a studio when World War II broke out," he explained. "My career was going great guns until I left for the Army."

He started as a private, rose to major and served with distinction at SHAEF headquarters and in combat at the Bulge. But when he returned to Hollywood, he found he was a forgotten man. The studios had to take back the returnees who had been under contract. Tom was out in the cold.

Just as he was getting his career back in good shape again, the Korean War broke out. Tom's outfit, the 40th Division, was activated, and he shipped out for combat duty in Korea. His hair started turning white then.

"When I got back, I had to start all over again," he recalled. "It was brutal. In my first year I made a total of $750, the returns from one television show."

On Your Mark! Get Set! EAT!

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—When Melvin Hughes and Harvey Howlett enter a restaurant the waitresses roll up their sleeves.

The two stage an eating contest with the tab going to the first to stop packing it away.

Hughes won a recent match by chomping through a hot roast beef dinner with potatoes, gravy and bread; one hot turkey dinner with the same; four cheeseburgers, one bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich; a side order of fried potatoes; one large soft drink; two glasses of milk and apple pie.

Nobel Prize Winners Arrive

Only Boris Pasternak To Skip Ceremony

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Winners of 1958 Nobel Prizes gathered today for the prize giving. The Russians sent the three winners of the physics prize but, as promised, literary winner Boris Pasternak stayed home.

Another blast was loosed at Pasternak, author of the novel "Dr. Zhivago," by Soviet writers at a Moscow meeting Sunday.

The prizes will be awarded at ceremonies Wednesday.

Pasternak's three countrymen arrived to share in the physics prize of $41,420. The Soviet scientists are P. A. Cherenkov, I. M. Frank and Igor Tamm.

Coming in early today from London were the British winners of the prize in chemistry, Frederick Sanger, and Dr. Joshua Lederberg, who share the medicine and physiology prize with U.S. colleagues Dr. George Beadle and Dr. Edward L. Tatum.

Beadle arrived Sunday and Tatum was expected later today.

Lederberg is from the University of Wisconsin, Tatum from the Rockefeller Institute in New York and Beadle from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

Father Dominique Georges Pire, Belgian priest who won the peace prize, arrived in Oslo, Norway, to receive his prize there Wednesday. The peace prize is awarded by a five-man committee from the Norwegian Parliament. The other winners were picked by Swedish groups.

Pasternak at first accepted his literature prize, then turned it down under pressure at home. But the committee making the award said he would be listed as the 1958 winner, although the $41,420 was put back in the Nobel fund. His diploma and gold medal are in a safe, to be given him if he ever comes to Sweden.

Tom Brown, Now 43, Unable To Shake Juvenile Casting

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This may come as a surprise to movie producers, but Tom Brown is no longer eligible to play halfback for the Culver or Annapolis variety.

Tom may look like a juvenile in the rah-rah films on the late, late TV show. But he's nearing 44, has white hair and a sandy mustache and is mature of face.

"But I can't get producers to think of me this way," the actor complained. "When my name is mentioned in casting, they generally say 'he's too young.'"

He's making some progress, however. He has good roles in two forthcoming Western films and will be seen on two upcoming CBS shows "Have Gun Will Travel" and "December Bride." If his luck continues, Tom might make it.

But it has been a rugged go. Tom's fight to make a living in the acting business has been a long and often losing one.

How do you figure it? The name of Tom Brown is familiar to most movie goers. He's a handsome, capable performer.

"One of my problems was that I wasn't under contract to a studio when World War II broke out," he explained. "My career was going great guns until I left for the Army."

He started as a private, rose to major and served with distinction at SHAEF headquarters and in combat at the Bulge. But when he returned to Hollywood, he found he was a forgotten man. The studios had to take back the returnees who had been under contract. Tom was out in the cold.

Just as he was getting his career back in good shape again, the Korean War broke out. Tom's outfit, the 40th Division, was activated, and he shipped out for combat duty in Korea. His hair started turning white then.

"When I got back, I had to start all over again," he recalled. "It was brutal. In my first year I made a total of $750, the returns from one television show."

On Your Mark! Get Set! EAT!

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—When Melvin Hughes and Harvey Howell enter a restaurant the waitresses roll up their sleeves.

The two stage an eating contest with the tab going to the first to stop packing it away.

Hughes won a recent match by chomping through a hot roast beef dinner with potatoes, gravy and bread; one hot turkey dinner with the same; four cheeseburgers, one bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich; a side order of fried potatoes; one large soft drink; two glasses of milk and apple pie.

Fayette Cattle Committeemen Plan Program

State Association May Be Asked Here For Summer Barbecue

Officers and state directors of the Commercial Cattle Feeders Assn. met Monday night with County Extension Agent W. W. Montgomery in the Extension Office and developed a program for the county for the coming year.

Preceding the program planning, short reports were given on the Northern Ohio cattle feeders tour held Nov. 5 and the Western tour to Nebraska, held the last part of September.

The minutes of the last meeting and the financial report of the association were read by Barton Montgomery, secretary-treasurer. The matter of membership ticket sales was discussed. This year the dues to the state association will be $3, having been raised at the last annual meeting of the state association.

The committee made plans for a round-up dinner of all cattle feeders to be held Jan. 12. Jerry Nessell and Alfred Hagler were appointed as a committee on the date, place and ticket sales. Jesse Schlichter and Richard Craig were appointed on the program committee.

THE ANNUAL cattle feeders tour was discussed and the committee recommended that a tour committee be appointed at the January meeting. The committee went on record as favoring presentation of a proposition to the entire membership group that Fayette County invite the state association to hold its annual summer barbecue and round-up in Fayette County.

Should the entire membership group of the cattle feeders association favor this proposition at their January meeting, then the invitation will be extended to the state association when they meet in Columbus, Jan. 28 and 29.

Enrollment in 4-H steer projects was discussed. Up to the meeting, only 18 enrollment cards were in the Extension office. Enrollment closes Jan. 1. This year all 4-H steers will be weighed on Jan. 3 at the Producers Stockyards for participation in the "Rate of Gain" contest.

The holding of 4-H sales at the Fair, which will be handled by the cussed.

IN REVIEWING the overall cattle situation, it was brought out that the cattle population in the county had increased from 20,000 head in 1950 to 29,000 head in 1957 and then had decreased to 27,900 head as of January 1958. This follows the general trend of the cattle cycle, cattle having decreased in the United States from 96.8 million in 1956 to 94 million in 1958.

The projection of the cattle industry indicates that cattle numbers will go back up to 96 million head for 1959.

It was brought out that the number of silos in the county, which estimated around 250, has increased during the past couple of years and this trend will probably continue. The committee was of the opinion that less grass silage was being used and more and more silos were being filled with corn.

APPROXIMATELY 12 to 13 per cent of the gross income of farmers in the county is from the sale of cattle. This has been increasing during the past five years. Dairy cattle have been decreasing during the last 10 years and have gone down from 6,800 to 4,500. It was pointed out that only one beef herd owner in the county is doing production testing.

It was the opinion of the committee that fewer Western feeder calves would be shipped into the county, that more of the steer calves would come from the Southeast. There was some indication that the number of cow herds in the county are decreasing.

Those attending the meeting were Richard Craig, vice president, Creachbaum and Alfred Hagler, directors to the state association; Jerry Nessell of the Producers Livestock Assn., Bill Mace of the Union Stockyards and County Agent Montgomery.

So Little Red Fox Comes To Town?

Nice weather for foxes?

The near-zero weather late Monday night didn't seem to bother a little red fox cavorting in the snow on the side lawn at the home of the Elden Armbrust home, corner Albin and Armbrust Aves.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Markley of 438 Warren Ave., said that at first they thought it was a dog, but after getting a closer look, "felt almost positive" that it was a fox! Mrs. Markley said the noise of the car didn't seem to bother its play.

Bus Driver In Trouble After Crash

CINCINNATI (AP)—A bus driver faces a traffic charge in a bus-ambulance collision that injured him and 15 passengers aboard his jammed commuter bus late Monday.

Police charged Robert D. Courtney with failure to give right-of-way to an emergency vehicle—a life squad ambulance answering an accident call.

Officers said there were about 60 passengers on the bus that collided with the ambulance at a busy downtown intersection.

Courtney, who suffered hand, arm and knee injuries, told police he didn't hear the emergency vehicle's siren, and that his brakes failed as he entered the intersection on a green light.

But a police sergeant, who said he witnessed the crash, reported the siren was audible and an emergency street light system was working.

Only one passenger, Mrs. Eugene Tuchfarber, 54, was hurt seriously. The rest were released after hospital treatment for cuts and bruises.

Two firemen in the ambulance suffered knee and shoulder injury.

Will Again Act As "Clearing House"

The Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce will again act as a clearing house for Christmas baskets.

The Board of Directors at its meeting Monday night to once again assist organizations which intend to give baskets to the needy.

Representatives of the organizations, including church groups, will meet in the Chamber's office next Tuesday, Dec. 16.

The board said the Chamber will not rule on who is to receive the baskets but will function only as a planning organization to eliminate duplication.

Representatives of the County Welfare Department will also attend the organizational meeting.

The board also directed the Chamber's industrial committee to study the need for an industrial brochure of the area. The committee will submit its findings at the next meeting.

In other action, the board said a list of organizations in the city are available to members of the Chamber at no cost and to non-members for $2.50.

The board also commended the Business Relations Advisory Council of the Chamber on its newly instituted program to educate local residents on American business.

The C of C will submit a program report for evaluation in the annual awards program of the United States C. of C. the board said.

Oberlin Shuns Capital Meet In Race Fuss

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Unless non-segregated housing is provided, Oberlin College students will not participate in a special study program in the nation's capital.

Dean Blair Stewart of Oberlin announced Monday the college's withdrawal from the Washington semester program sponsored by American University in Washington.

American is not a segregated school, but students in the special study group are housed off campus in privately owned housing where Negroes are not permitted.

As a result, a Negro coed from Oberlin would be forced to live apart from her classmates. It was suggested Miss Rosemary Anderson of Gary, Ind., could reside on the campus.

Until arrangements are made for non-segregated housing for all the students in the program, Dean Stewart said, Oberlin will not participate.

About 200 students for 40 to 50 colleges and universities take part annually in the program in which juniors majoring in political science and journalism study operations of the federal government.

2 Staunch Segregationists Clash in 'Bama Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A dramatic conflict between two staunch Southern segregationists has marked the U.S. Civil Rights Commission inquiry into complaints of flagrant voting discrimination against Alabama Negroes.

One of the Southerners is youthful State Atty. Gen. John Patterson, governor-elect and leader of Alabama defiance of the commission's fact-finding excursion. The other is veteran John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia and a Southern member of the six-man commission.

After the federal group had spent several hours Monday persistently trying but generally failing to obtain voter registration records and testimony from officials of six Alabama counties, Battle made an unusual plea for better cooperation.

In a statement at the close of the first day of the commission's first public hearing, the tall, white-haired Virginian emphasized that no one believes more strongly than he in racial segregation as a way of life in the South.

But, he said, the Alabama officials are not making a good impression by what looks like an effort to cover up their actions on Negro voting.

He pleaded with them to reconsider, obey subpoenas to deliver their records and cease to withhold testimony lest "our enemies" capitalize on the situation.

Northern congressmen, he said, will use Alabama's defiant attitude as an argument for a tougher civil rights law. That, he reminded, "will react adversely to us in Virginia and to you in Alabama."

But Patterson would have none of it. In a blistering statement he rejected the cooperation appeal, declaring: "In fights of this nature there can be no surrender of principle to expediency. The time for retreating has come to an end."

He asserted that the Alabama officials have performed their duties according to the law and have nothing to hide. But, he went on, they are judicial officers and cannot legally comply with the commission subpoenas and orders.

The commission received abundant testimony from Negro witnesses—some of them highly educated faculty members of famed Tuskegee Institute—that they were denied the ballot in Macon County for no other reason than their race and color.

Viper Bites Columbus Pet Shop Owner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dosed with anti-venom serum, a 53-year-old Columbus pet shop operator is waiting.

If the serum works, Carl J. Vickers may have no reaction from the strike of a viper. If there are ill effects, he'll know today.

Vickers was called to a nearby wholesale produce house Monday to capture a snake lying in semi-dormant state in a bunch of bananas.

He wore gloves, he explained, and picked up the snake without trouble, taking it back to his shop in a bag. Warmed by the heat of his hand and the shop, the snake revived.

"I held it carefully, but somehow it got me," Vickers said. Quickly stowing it back in the bag, Vickers sucked the puncture wound in his finger and hurried to the Columbus Zoo. Reptile curators there identified the snake as Schlegel's Viper, a highly poisonous relative of the rattlesnake. Its home is South America.

Two units of viper anti-venom serum were found at the zoo and another at Children's Hospital here. A doctor administered one to Vickers. He gets a second today.

In the meantime, he's being watched—at home—for ill effects, which usually appear in 12 hours or so.

Vickers said cleansing the wound and the snake's semi-dormant condition may help, but added:

"As stiff as he was when I picked him up, he may not have gotten too much venom in. But after he warmed up... he certainly had a lot."

A spokesman said dragging operations no longer are possible because of ice conditions. A canoe which had been used by the youths—Jack Betzenheimer Jr., 17, and Richard Butel, 19—was found overturned Saturday near the northeast edge of the island.

Good Hope PTO Christmas Plans Made by Officers

GOOD HOPE — Plans for giving school children Christmas treats and for filling Christmas baskets for the needy were started at Monday night's meeting of the officers of the Good Hope Parent-Teacher Organization in the school.

Since the treats and baskets are a community project, the Good Hope Grange, the WSCS of the Methodist Church and the PTO will give cash to buy the fruits and vegetables for the baskets. The Lion's Club will buy a ham for each basket.

The students of the Good Hope school also will be asked to bring an article of staple food as their part in the project.

On the night of the Christmas program, which will be Dec. 17 in the school, a container will be placed near the door of the gym for anyone who wishes to bring something for baskets.

There will be another short business meeting of the PTO Dec. 15, before the Christmas play.

Room mothers are to meet in the cafeteria the night of Dec. 17 at 7 p. m. to sack treats.

Council Slates Fire Contract, Sales Law Talks Wednesday

City Council will walk into two potential lively discussions at its meeting Wednesday night.

The first involves an annual contract between the city and Union Township. After charging $250 a month for fire protection since about 1951, the city has asked for a raise to $1,000 a month.

When City Manager David Foell proposed the raise at Council's meeting two weeks ago, township officials said the increase would come close to putting them out of business.

THE TOWNSHIP is collecting $50 mill for its fire protection in 1958, but trustees lowered the rate to 30 mill in 1959 because there is a backlog in the fire protection fund of about $20,000, Harry Campbell, township secretary, said.

Estimated evaluation of property in the township will amount to over $12 million. At that rate, the township will collect more than $6,000 for fire protection in 1958 and about $3,600 in 1959.

Residents, in 1957, voted a five-year levy of .75 mill for fire protection to start in 1959, but the trustees lowered the rate because of the size of the fund, Campbell said.

COUNCIL and township trustees discussed the problem at a meeting Monday night and it was to be discussed again at the trustees' meeting Tuesday night, President Herbert Clickner said.

The other potential "bomb" Council is to take up is the proposed "Green River" ordinance.

Council read the ordinance for the first time two weeks ago at which time there was considerable discussion and a request by a Dayton businessman for permission to suggest an alternative ordinance.

BY TUESDAY MORNING, neither Foell nor Council President Ben Norris had received the ordinance. The proposed law now before Council would make solicitation without invitation illegal in the city.

Council will also discuss the renewal of mutual aid fire contracts with Concord and Green Townships, due to expire at the end of the year, and read the city's new subdivision ordinance for the third time.

Ventriloquism is an ancient art, known to the Greeks, who thought that it was the work of the mobs of demons.

Fayette Cattle Committeemen Plan Program

State Association May Be Asked Here For Summer Barbecue

Officers and state directors of the Commercial Cattle Feeders Assn. met Monday night with County Extension Agent W. W. Montgomery in the Extension Office and developed a program for the county for the coming year.

Preceding the program planning, short reports were given on the Northern Ohio cattle feeders tour held Nov. 5 and the Western tour to Nebraska, held the last part of September.

The minutes of the last meeting and the financial report of the association were read by Barton Montgomery, secretary-treasurer. The matter of membership ticket sales was discussed. This year the dues to the state association will be $3, having been raised at the last annual meeting of the state association.

The committee made plans for a round-up dinner of all cattle feeders to be held Jan. 12. Jerry Nessel and Alfred Hagler were appointed as a committee on the date, place and ticket sales. Jesse Schlichter and Richard Craig were appointed on the program committee.

THE ANNUAL cattle feeders tour was discussed and the committee recommended that a tour committee be appointed at the January meeting. The committee went on record as favoring presentation of a proposition to the entire membership group that Fayette County invite the state association to hold its annual summer barbecue and round-up in Fayette County.

Should the entire membership group of the cattle feeders association favor this proposition at their January meeting, then the invitation will be extended to the state association when they meet in Columbus, Jan. 28 and 29.

Enrollment in 4-H steer projects was discussed. Up to the meeting, only 18 enrollment cards were in the Extension office. Enrollment closes Jan. 1. This year all 4-H steers will be weighed on Jan. 3 at the Producers Stockyards for participation in the "Rate of Gain" contest.

The holding of 4-H sales at the Fair, which will be handled by the cussed.

IN REVIEWING the overall cattle situation, it was brought out that the cattle population in the county had increased from 20,000 head in 1950 to 29,000 head in 1957 and then had decreased to 27,900 head as of January 1958. This follows the general trend of the cattle cycle, cattle having decreased in the United States from 96.8 million in 1956 to 94 million in 1958.

The projection of the cattle industry indicates that cattle numbers will go back up to 96 million head for 1959.

It was brought out that the number of silos in the county, which estimated around 250, has increased during the past couple of years and this trend will probably continue. The committee was of the opinion that less grass silage was being used and more and more silos were being filled with corn.

APPROXIMATELY 12 to 13 percent of the gross income of farmers in the county is from the sale of cattle. This has been increasing during the past five years. Dairy cattle have been decreasing during the last 10 years and have gone down from 6,800 to 4,500. It was pointed out that only one beef herd owner in the county is doing production testing.

It was the opinion of the committee that fewer Western feeder calves would be shipped into the county, that more of the steer calves would come from the Southeast. There was some indication that the number of cow herds in the county are decreasing.

Those attending the meeting were Richard Craig, vice president, Creachbaum and Alfred Hagler, directors to the state association; Jerry Nessel of the Producers Livestock Assn., Bill Mace of the Union Stockyards and County Agent Montgomery.

So Little Red Fox Comes To Town?

Nice weather for foxes? The near-zero weather late Monday night didn't seem to bother a little red fox cavorting in the snow on the side lawn at the home of the Elden Armbrust home, corner Albin and Armbrust Aves.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Markley of 438 Warren Ave., said that at first they thought it was a dog, but after getting a closer look, "felt almost positive" that it was a fox!

Mrs. Markley said the noise of the car didn't seem to bother its play.

Bus Driver In Trouble After Crash

CINCINNATI (AP)—A bus driver faces a traffic charge in a bus-ambulance collision that injured him and 15 passengers aboard his jammed commuter bus late Monday.

Police charged Robert D. Courtney with failure to give right-of-way to an emergency vehicle—a life squad ambulance answering an accident call.

Officers said there were about 60 passengers on the bus that collided with the ambulance at a busy downtown intersection.

Courtney, who suffered hand, arm and knee injuries, told police he didn't hear the emergency vehicle's siren, and that his brakes failed as he entered the intersection on a green light.

But a police sergeant, who said he witnessed the crash, reported the siren was audible and an emergency street light system was working.

Only one passenger, Mrs. Eugene Tuchfarber, 54, was hurt seriously. The rest were released after hospital treatment for cuts and bruises.

Two firemen in the ambulance suffered knee and shoulder injury.

Will Again Act As "Clearing House"

The Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce will again act as a clearing house for Christmas baskets.

The Board of Directors at its meeting Monday night to once again assist organizations which intend to give baskets to the needy.

Representatives of the organizations, including church groups, will meet in the Chamber's office next Tuesday, Dec. 16.

The board said the Chamber will not rule on who is to receive the baskets but will function only as a planning organization to eliminate duplication.

Representatives of the County Welfare Department will also attend the organizational meeting.

The board also directed the Chamber's industrial committee to study the need for an industrial brochure of the area. The committee will submit its findings at the next meeting.

In other action, the board said a list of organizations in the city are available to members of the Chamber at no cost and to non-members for $2.50.

The board also commended the Business Relations Advisory Council of the Chamber on its newly instituted program to educate local residents on American business.

The C of C will submit a program report for evaluation in the annual awards program of the United States C. of C. the board said.

GOOD HOPE — The 25th anniversary observance and Christmas party were combined for Monday night's meeting of the Good Hope Grange in Wayne Hall.

The double-feature event started with a potluck supper for which the long tables had been decorated in the Yuletide theme by the Marilee Garden Club. The Christmas atmosphere also was created with the decorations of the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Johnson presented a big gaily decorated cake, with "25th Anniversary" inscribed on the icing. It was placed on the table at which were seated the five past masters and five charter members.

The past masters at the meeting were Everett Rife, Orville Weidinger, Emerald Sollars, Glenn Whittington and Loren Johnson. The charter members

Oberlin Shuns Capital Meet In Race Fuss

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Unless non-segregated housing is provided, Oberlin College students will not participate in a special study program in the nation's capital.

Dean Blair Stewart of Oberlin announced Monday the college's withdrawal from the Washington semester program sponsored by American University in Washington.

American is not a segregated school, but students in the special study group are housed off campus in privately owned housing where Negroes are not permitted.

As a result, a Negro coed from Oberlin would be forced to live apart from her classmates. It was suggested Miss Rosemary Anderson of Gary, Ind., could reside on the campus.

Until arrangements are made for non-segregated housing for all the students in the program, Dean Stewart said, Oberlin will not participate.

About 200 students for 40 to 50 colleges and universities take part annually in the program in which juniors majoring in political science and journalism study operations of the federal government.

2 Staunch Segregationists Clash in 'Bama Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A dramatic conflict between two staunch Southern segregationists has marked the U.S. Civil Rights Commission inquiry into complaints of flagrant voting discrimination against Alabama Negroes.

One of the Southerners is youthful State Atty. Gen. John Patterson, governor-elect and leader of Alabama defiance of the commission's fact-finding excursion. The other is veteran John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia and a Southern member of the six-man commission.

After the federal group had spent several hours Monday persistently trying but generally failing to obtain voter registration records and testimony from officials of six Alabama counties, Battle made an unusual plea for better cooperation.

In a statement at the close of the first day of the commission's first public hearing, the tall, white-haired Virginian emphasized that no one believes more strongly than he in racial segregation as a way of life in the South.

But, he said, the Alabama officials are not making a good impression by what looks like an effort to cover up their actions on Negro voting.

He pleaded with them to reconsider, obey subpoenas to deliver their records and cease to withhold testimony lest "our enemies" capitalize on the situation.

Northern congressmen, he said, will use Alabama's defiant attitude as an argument for a tougher civil rights law. That, he reminded, "will react adversely to us in Virginia and to you in Alabama."

But Patterson would have none of it. In a blistering statement he rejected the cooperation appeal, declaring: "In fights of this nature there can be no surrender of principle to expediency. The time for retreating has come to an end."

He asserted that the Alabama officials have performed their duties according to the law and have nothing to hide. But, he went on, they are judicial officers and cannot legally comply with the commission subpoenas and orders.

The commission received abundant testimony from Negro witnesses—some of them highly educated faculty members of famed Tuskegee Institute — that they were denied the ballot in Macon County for no other reason than their race and color.

Viper Bites Columbus Pet Shop Owner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dosed with anti-venom serum, a 53-year-old Columbus pet shop operator is waiting.

If the serum works, Carl J. Vickers may have no reaction from the bite of a viper. If there are ill effects, he'll know today.

Vickers was called to a nearby wholesale produce house Monday to capture a snake lying in semi-dormant state in a bunch of bananas.

He wore gloves, he explained, and picked up the snake without trouble, taking it back to his shop in a bag. Warmed by the heat of his hand and the shop, the snake revived.

"I held it carefully, but somehow it got me," Vickers said.

Quickly stowing it back in the bag, Vickers sucked the puncture wound in his finger and hurried to the Columbus Zoo. Reptile curators there identified the snake as Schlegel's Viper, a highly poisonous relative of the rattlesnake. Its home is South America.

Two units of viper anti-venom serum were found at the zoo and another at Children's Hospital here. A doctor administered one to Vickers. He gets a second today. In the meantime, he's being watched—at home—for ill effects, which usually appear in 12 hours or so.

Vickers said cleansing the wound and the snake's semi-dormant condition may help, but added: "As stiff as he was when I picked him up, he may not have gotten too much venom in. But after he warmed up . . . he certainly had a lot."

Good Hope PTO Christmas Plans Made by Officers

GOOD HOPE — Plans for giving school children Christmas treats and for filling Christmas baskets for the needy were started at Monday night's meeting of the officers of the Good Hope Parent-Teacher Organization in the school.

Since the treats and baskets are a community project, the Good Hope Grange, the WSCS of the Methodist Church and the PTO will give cash to buy the fruits and vegetables for the baskets. The Lion's Club will buy a ham for each basket.

The students of the Good Hope school also will be asked to bring an article of staple food as their part in the project.

On the night of the Christmas program, which will be Dec. 17 in the school, a container will be placed near the door of the gym for anyone who wishes to bring something for baskets.

There will be another short business meeting of the PTO Dec. 15, before the Christmas play.

Council Slates Fire Contract, Sales Law Talks Wednesday

City Council will walk into two potential lively discussions at its meeting Wednesday night.

The first involves an annual contract between the city and Union Township. After charging $250 a month for fire protection since about 1951, the city has asked for a raise to $1,000 a month.

When City Manager David Foell proposed the raise at Council's meeting two weeks ago, township officials said the increase would come close to putting them out of business.

THE TOWNSHIP is collecting .50 mill for its fire protection in 1958, but trustees lowered the rate to .30 mill in 1959 because there is a backlog in the fire protection fund of about $20,000, Harry Campbell, township secretary, said.

Estimated evaluation of property in the township will amount to over $12 million. At that rate, the township will collect more than $6,000 for fire protection in 1958 and about $3,600 in 1959.

Residents, in 1957, voted a five-year levy of .75 mill for fire protection to start in 1959, but the trustees lowered the rate because of the size of the fund, Campbell said.

COUNCIL and township trustees discussed the problem at a meeting Monday night and it was to be discussed again at the trustees' meeting Tuesday night, President Herbert Clickner said.

The other potential "bomb" Council is to take up is the proposed "Green River" ordinance.

Council read the ordinance for the first time two weeks ago at which time there was considerable discussion and a request by a Dayton businessman for permission to suggest an alternative ordinance.

BY TUESDAY MORNING, neither Foell nor Council President Ben Norris had received the ordinance. The proposed law now before Council would make solicitation without invitation illegal in the city.

Council will also discuss the renewal of mutual aid fire contracts with Concord and Green Townships, due to expire at the end of the year, and read the city's new subdivision ordinance for the third time.

Ventriloquism is an ancient art, known to the Greeks, who thought that it was the work of the mobs of demons.
